the book addresses basic issues in the history of labor and industry and makes an original contribution to the discussion of how technology and people interact taking a major textile artwork the knitting map as a central case study this book interrogates the social philosophical and critical issues surrounding contemporary textile art today it explores gestures of community and controversy manifest in contemporary textile art practices as both process and object created by more than 2 000 knitters from 22 different countries who were mostly working class women the knitting map became the subject of national controversy in ireland exploring the creation of this multi modal artwork as a key moment in irish art history textiles community and controversy locates the work within a context of feminist arts practice including the work of judy chicago faith ringold and the guerilla girls bringing together leading art critics and textile scholars including lucy lippard jessica hemmings and joanne turney the collection explores key issues in textile practice from gender class and nation to technology and performance the clothing sector has traditionally been a gateway to export diversification and industrial development for low income countries lics due to its low fix costs relatively simple technology and labor intensive nature it has served to absorb large numbers of unskilled and mostly female workers and build capital and know how for more technologically advanced activities within and across sectors but the environment for global clothing trade has changed significantly which may condition the role the sector can play in promoting export diversification and industrial development in lics today main drivers have been the rise of global buyers and their global sourcing strategies the phase out of quotas in the multi fiber arrangement mfa and more recently the global economic crisis in the context of these changes this study analyzes how the clothing sector can still provide a gateway to export diversification and industrial development for lics today the key objectives of this study are to assess main developments in the global clothing sector associated with the multi fiber arrangement mfa phase out global buyers and their sourcing strategies and the global economic crisis analyze challenges that lics are facing in the post quota and post crisis world in entering and upgrading within global clothing value chains and identify policy recommendations to increase the competitiveness of lic clothing exporters as well as to further their integration into and improve their positions within global clothing value chains for the study interviews with buyers in the us the eu and south africa as well as case studies in sub saharan african lics kenya lesotho and swaziland cambodia and bangladesh were conducted the study finds that global consolidation in the clothing sector has increased entry barriers at the country and firm level this has created new challenges to lic suppliers as low labor costs and preferential market access are not enough to be competitive in the clothing sector today suppliers with broad capabilities have been able to develop strategic relationships with global buyers marginal or new suppliers are entering the global value chains through intermediaries but face limited upgrading opportunities fdi plays an important role in integrated lics into global clothing value chains yet it needs to be used in a way that promotes and upgrades local clothing industries overall the clothing sector still provides opportunities for export diversification and industrial development however this requires pro active policies to increase the competitiveness and local embeddedness of lic clothing exporters
