from the preface my purpose here is to interest the child in the stars which are always with him to stimulate his imagination and to direct him in a pastime the hunting out of the constellations and individual stars that may become an enduring joy with the help of the oblong charts and their duplicates in which miss borroughs has placed the animals he can learn the constellations separately and in groups with the ancient mythic animals in their places and by using the round charts at the back of the book he can see the sky as a whole as it appears from our northern hemisphere during the different seasons and trace out the smaller or less important constellations which i have not given a good way to learn the configurations that form the constellations is to draw them if the charts are held over the head with the cardinal points in the proper places the stars can be seen as they are in the sky or the same result can be obtained by one who sits facing the south and holds the charts with the north end upwards if any child has as much pleasure in reading this book as i have had in preparing it or obtains a broader outlook upon life from its perusal all my efforts will be fully repaid this book will interest anyone who marvels at the night sky and would like to learn to recognise constellations and identify the brightest stars by name step by step the reader is guided through the knowledge needed to recognise key constellations identify stars and planets and interpret changes in the overall appearance of the sky throughout the year
