the history of civilizations traces the history of man in this vast region from the palaeolithic beginnings to circa 700 b c when the foundations for the formation of the great empire were laid many different elements must come together before a human community develops to the level of sophistication commonly referred to as civilization the first is the existence of settlements classifiable as towns or cities this requires food production to be efficient enough for a large minority of the community to be engaged in more specialized activities such as the creation of imposing buildings or works of art the practice of skilled warfare and above all the administration of a centralized bureaucracy capable of running the machinery of state despite the major role played by central asia in shaping the history of the past and of today this vast region stretching from the caspian sea to mongolia and western china had not been studied as a whole cultural entity in time and space this multi volume history of civilizations of central asia published in english is the first attempt to present a comprehensive picture of the cultures that flourished and vanished at the heart of the eurasian continent from the dawn of civilization to the present day the book is an engaging and thought provoking philosophical account that demonstrates that critical inquiry is an ongoing process with strains of continuity and evolution of civilizations

what is public health to some it is about drains water food and housing all requiring engineering and expert management to others it is the state using medicine or health education and tackling unhealthy lifestyles this book argues that public health thinking needs an overhaul a return to and modernisation around ecological principles ecological public health thinking outlined here fits the twenty first century s challenges it integrates what the authors call the four dimensions of existence the material biological social and cultural aspects of life public health becomes the task of transforming the relationship between people their circumstances and the biological world of nature and bodies for geof rayner and tim lang this is about facing a number of long term transitions some well recognized others not these transitions are demographic epidemiological urban energy economic nutrition biological cultural and democracy itself the authors argue that identifying large scale transitions such as these refocuses public health actions onto the conditions on which human and eco systems health interact making their case rayner and lang map past confusions in public health images definitions and models this is an optimistic book arguing public health can be rescued from its current dilemmas and frustrations this century s agenda is unavoidably complex however and requires stronger and more daring combinations of interdisciplinary work movements and professions locally nationally and globally outlining these in the concluding section the book charts a positive and reinvigorated institutional purpose
