by all measures the late twentieth century was a time of dramatic decline for the islamic world the ummah particularly its arab heartland sober muslim voices regularly describe their current state as the worst in the 1 400 year history of islam yet precisely at this time of unprecedented material vulnerability islam has emerged as a civilizational force strong enough to challenge the imposition of western particularly american homogenizing power on muslim peoples this is the central paradox of islam today at a time of such unprecedented weakness in one sense how has the islamic awakening a broad and diverse movement of contemporary islamic renewal emerged as such a resilient and powerful transnational force and what implications does it have for the west in one islam many muslims worlds raymond w baker addresses this question two things are clear baker argues islam s unexpected strength in recent decades does not originate from official political economic or religious institutions nor can it be explained by focusing exclusively on the often criminal assertions of violent marginal groups while extremists monopolize the international press and the scholarly journals those who live and work in the islamic world know that the vast majority of muslims reject their reckless calls to violence and look elsewhere for guidance baker shows that extremists draw their energy and support not from contributions to the reinterpretation and revival of islamic beliefs and practices but from the hatreds engendered by misguided western policies in islamic lands his persuasive analysis of the islamic world identifies centrists as the revitalizing force of islam saying that they are responsible for constructing a modern cohesive islamic identity that is a force to be reckoned with contributions by w montgomery watt alford t welch william a graham george makdisi michael e marmura annemarie schimmel and david kerr this book concentrates on female shamanisms in asia and their relationship with the state and other religions offering a perspective on gender and shamanism that has often been neglected in previous accounts an international range of contributors cover a broad geographical scope ranging from siberia to south asia and iran to japan several key themes are considered including the role of bureaucratic established religions in integrating challenging and fighting shamanic practices the position of women within shamanic complexes and perceptions of the body beginning with a chapter that places the shamaness at the centre of the discussion chapters then approach these issues in a variety of ways from historically informed accounts to presenting the findings of extensive ethnographic research by the authors themselves offering an important counterbalance to male dominated accounts of shamanism this book will be of great interest to scholars of indigenous peoples across religious studies anthropology asian studies and gender studies the most authoritative anthology of islamist texts this anthology of key primary texts provides an unmatched introduction to islamist political thought from the early twentieth century to the present and serves as an invaluable guide through the storm of polemic fear and confusion that swirls around islamism today roxanne euben and muhammad qasim zaman gather a broad selection of texts from influential islamist thinkers and place these figures and their writings in their multifaceted political and historical contexts the selections presented here in english translation include writings of ayatollah khomeini usama bin laden muslim brotherhood founder hasan al banna and moroccan islamist leader nadia yassine as well as the hamas charter an interview with a taliban commander and the final testament of 9 11 hijacker muhammad ata illuminating the content and political appeal of islamist thought this anthology brings into sharp relief the commonalities in islamist arguments about gender democracy and violence but it also reveals significant political and theological disagreements among thinkers too often grouped together and dismissed as extremists or terrorists no other anthology better illustrates the diversity of islamist thought the complexity of its intellectual and political contexts or the variety of ways in which it relates to other intellectual and religious trends in the contemporary muslim world
