this is one of the first studies to examine the jewish christian relationship from a philosophical and theological viewpoint discover the power of dialogue to heal religious division how can members of different faith traditions approach each other with openness and respect how can they confront the painful conflicts in their history and overcome theological misconceptions for more than twenty years professors mary c boys and sara s lee have explored ways that catholics and jews might overcome mistrust and misunderstandings in order to promote commitment to religious pluralism at its best interreligious dialogue entails not simply learning about the other from the safety of one s own faith community but rather engaging in specific learning activities with members of the other faith learning in the presence of the other drawing upon examples from their own experience boys and lee lay out a framework for engaging the religious other in depth with vision and insight they discuss ways of fostering relationships among participants and with key texts beliefs and practices of the other s tradition in this groundbreaking resource they offer a guide for members of any faith tradition who want to move beyond the rhetoric of interfaith dialogue and into the demanding yet richly rewarding work of developing new understandings of the religious other and of one s own tradition this is an invaluable aid in helping readers become better acquainted with key issues involved in the relationship between judaism and christianity it brings together significant discussions of major theological and religious topics that are an integral part of the faith dialogue between jews and christians each topic is treated in two separate essays one by a christian scholar the other by a jewish scholar and points of sacred dissonance is a thought provoking study exploring the distinctions between religious identities and cultural boundaries of jews and christians opposing the notion that all faiths are the same anthony le donne a new testament scholar and larry behrendt a jewish lawyer offer introspective essays on topics such as neighborhood relations hospitality and the holocaust and provide a model for addressing a difficult past and challenging present american readers too often burdened by their own stereotypes about germans can benefit by reading these papers and coming to a better understanding of how jews and germans are working together to overcome the tragic history that continues to affect the modern world this book inquires as to whether theological dialogue between christians and jews is possible not only in itself but also as regards the emergence of communities of messianic judaism in light of david novak s insights matthew levering proposes that christian theological responses to supersessionism need to preserve both the church s development of doctrine and rabbinic judaism s ability to define its own boundaries the book undertakes constructive philosophical theology in dialogue with novak exploring the interrelated doctrines of divine providence theonomy the image of god and natural law levering places novak s work in conversation especially with thomas aquinas whose approach fosters a rich dialogue with novak s broadly maimonidean perspective it focuses upon the relationship of human beings to the creator with attention to the philosophical entailments of jewish and christian covenantal commitments aiming to spell out what true freedom involves it concludes by asking whether christians and jews would do better to bracket our covenantal commitments in pursuing such wisdom drawing upon novak s work the author argues that in the face of suffering and death god s covenantal election makes possible hope lacking which the quest for wisdom runs aground the stories of dialogue and encounter shared in this book demonstrate how drinking from the wells of another tradition often brings a greater appreciation of the faith we call our own in reflecting on the experiences of others and on her own involvement in jewish christian dialogue the author explores the challenge of religious commitment pluralistic world book jacket title summary field provided by blackwell north america inc all rights reserved
