korea is currently witnessing huge social change with unprecedented divorce rates and the disintegration of the traditional family system fusing audience research and ethnography women television and everyday life in korea presents a compelling account of women s changing lives and identities in relation to the impact of the most popular media culture in everyday life television within the historically specific social conditions of korean modernization kim analyses how korean women of varying age and class groups cope with the new environment of changing economical structures and social relations the central arguments presented revolve around the revelatory and self reflexive nature of tv talk and its function as a form of empowerment the book argues that television is an important resource for women stimulating them to research their own lives and identities kim reveals korean women as creative energetic and critical audiences in their responses to evolving modernity and the impact of the west publisher description this book uses the body of letters and treatises addressed by major christian thinkers to the women of the anicia family as well as comparative evidence from modern hinduism and islam to explore how modesty became a creative and performative mode of being for late roman christian ascetic women the book places a body of women s fiction against the ideological territory of radical feminism with a firm belief in its social political and intellectual essentiality the absence of this specific discourse in women s texts stirs an urge for a different kind of gender sensitivity than their limited and undefined approach provides the book takes into its view a huge compendium of women s fiction in hindi and in indian english most of which has been victim of hegemonic biases and overall marginalization numerous books explore the how to of qualitative research but few discuss what it means to actually engage in it particularly when researchers adopt alternative methods to shed light on the experiences of marginalized populations in demarginalizing voices scholars share personal stories about their research with marginalized populations including aboriginal peoples sex workers the dead and the dying women and men in prison women and men released from prison and the homeless and the hospitalized in the process they answer questions of relevance to anyone engaged in qualitative research what can scholars expect when their research requires them to establish human connections and relationships with their subjects what role do ethics review boards and institutions play when researchers explore new often less accepted methods how do researchers reconcile academic life and its expectations with their activism these powerful accounts from the cutting edge of qualitative research not only create a space in academia that centres marginalized voices they open up the field to new debates and discussion oral history is increasingly acknowledged as a key tool for anyone studying the history of the recent past and oral history theory provides a comprehensive systematic and accessible overview of this important field combining the study of theories drawn from disciplines ranging from linguistics to psychoanalysis with the observations of practitioners and including extensive examples of oral history practice from around the world this book constitutes the first integrated discussion of oral history theory structured around key themes such as the peculiarities of oral history the study of the self subjectivity and intersubjectivity memory narrative performance power and trauma each chapter provides a clear and user friendly explanation of the various theoretical approaches illustrating these with examples from the rich field of published oral history and making suggestions for the practicing oral historian this second edition includes a new chapter on trauma and ethics a preface discussing new developments in the field and updated glossary and further reading sections
