like his fellow filmmakers stanley kubrick quentin tarantino and sofia coppola wong kar wai crafts the soundtracks of his films by jettisoning original scores in favor of commercial recordings in remixing wong kar wai giorgio biancorosso examines the combinatorial practice at the heart of wong s cinema to retheorize musical borrowing appropriation and repurposing wong s

irrepressible penchant for poaching music from other films whether old Chinese melodramas Hollywood blockbusters or European art films subsumes familiar music under his own brand of cinema as Wong combs through musical and cinematic archives and splices disparate music together exceedingly well known music loses its previous associations and acquires an infinite new constellation of meanings in his films drawing on Claude Lévi-Strauss's concept of bricolage. Biancorosso contends that Wong's borrowing is akin to a practice of creative destruction in which Wong becomes a bricoleur who remixes music at hand to create new and complete self-sustaining statements by outlining Wong's modus operandi of indiscriminate borrowing and remixing. Biancorosso prompts readers to reconsider the significance of transforming preexisting music into new compositions for film and beyond.

The long awaited retrospective from the internationally renowned film director celebrated for his visually lush and atmospheric films Wong Kar Wai is known for his romantic and stylish films that explore in saturated cinematic scenes themes of love, longing and the burden of memory. His style reveals a fascination with mood and texture and a sense of place. Figures prominently in this volume the first on his entire body of work Wong Kar Wai and writer John Powers explore Wong's complete oeuvre in the locations of some of his most famous scenes. The book is structured as six conversations between Powers and Wong each in a different locale including the restaurant where he shot In the Mood for Love and the snack bar where he shot Chungking Express. Discussing each of Wong's eleven films the conversations also explore Wong's trademark themes of time, nostalgia and beauty and their roots in his personal life. This first book by Wong Kar Wai lavishly illustrated with more than 250 photographs and film stills and featuring an opening critical essay by Powers. Wong Kar Wai is as evocative as walking into one of Wong's lush films.

Wong Kar Wai's 1994 Chungking Express has quickly been recognised as one of the most important examples of world cinema in the last two decades. It explores time and desire and on an allegorical level the perceived loss of independence that many
