at the end of the second world war when the horror of the holocaust became known hannah arendt committed herself to a work of remembrance and reflection intellectual integrity demanded that we comprehend and articulate the genesis and meaning of totalitarian terror what earlier spiritual and moral collapse had made totalitarian regimes possible what was the basis of their evident mass appeal to what cultural resources and political institutions and traditions could we turn to prevent their recurrence after years of profound study arendt concluded that the deepest crisis of the modern world was political and that the enduring appeal of political mass movements demonstrated how profound that crisis had become for arendt the modern political crisis is also a crisis of humanism the radical totalitarian experiment was rooted in two distorted images of the human being the agents of terror believed in the limitless power generated by strategic organization a power exercised without restraint and justified by appeal to historical necessity the victims of terror by contrast were systematically dehumanized by the ruling ideology and then brutally deprived of their legal rights and their moral and existential dignity arendt's political humanism directly challenges both of these distorted images the first because it dangerously inflates human power the second because it deliberately subverts human freedom and agency this book offers a dialectical account of the political crisis that arendt identified and shows why her interpretation of that crisis is especially relevant today the author also provides detailed analysis and appraisal of arendt s political humanism the revisionary anthropology she based on the politically engaged republican citizen finally the work distinguishes the merits from the limitations of arendt s genealogical critique of our tradition of political thought showing that she tended to be right in what she affirmed and wrong in what she excluded or omitted maarten wisse develops a critique of dominant trends in contemporary theology through a re reading of augustine s de trinitate theological topics covered include the thinking about the relationship of between god and world as participation of the finite in the infinite christology as a manifestation of this ontology of participation trinity as a model for our relational mode of being and deification theosis as the purpose of salvation key figures are brought in conversation with an augustinian alternative to these trends such as wolfgang pannenberg joseph ratzinger denys turner john milbank catherine pickstock and graham ward life examined is an anthology of carefully edited readings designed to serve as an introduction to many of the fundamental concepts of ethical and socio political thought it includes primary sources from a variety of traditions with selections that range chronologically from ancient times through to the present day these readings have been thoughtfully selected edited and contextualized to provide students with opportunities to sharpen their capacities for critical and theoretical reflection the book begins with three key texts that frame the historical discourse subsequent chapters are organized around ethical themes and theoretical questions that have animated debates throughout the ages including the nature of practical rationality scientific reasoning
