the trade between peoples of different cultures from the ancient world to the commercial revolution this book highlights the ways in which Britain and Belgium became culturally entangled as a result of their interaction in the period between the Napoleonic wars and the first world war in the course of the nineteenth century the battlefields of Waterloo and Ypres in Belgium became veritable burial grounds for generations of dead British military indirectly leading to the most intensive ties between the two countries by exploring this twofold path the author uncovers a series of cross influences and creative similarities within the Belgian British artistic community and explores the background against which the British national identity was constructed revealing unknown links between some of the most famous artists on both sides of the channel such as D. G. Rossetti and Jan van Eyck Christina Rossetti and Fernand Khnopff John Millais and Pieter Breughel and Lewis Carroll and Quentin Massys the book emphasises an artistic cross fertilisation that can be found within battlefield literature throughout the nineteenth century including examples from the likes of William M. Thackeray Frances Trollope and Charlotte Brontë providing a rich intercultural history of Belgian British relations after the battle of Waterloo this interdisciplinary book will appeal to scholars and students researching history literature art and cultural studies change is the stock in trade of historians if we have no concept of change and no sense of the past as different from the present then consequently we cannot have an historical sense in the deepest meaning of the term however historians rarely discuss change per se in very explicit terms what constitutes change how do you know when change has happened how do you define or measure it are there different kinds of change these are some of the issues explored in this book ireland has been in a process of extremely rapid cultural change in recent decades whether in the precipitate decline in the influence of the catholic church or in the rapid adoption of globalised market culture reflecting on the general nature of such change is a prerequisite for understanding ireland s place in a new cultural economy this collection is based on papers presented to the 25th biennial irish conference of historians held at the national university of ireland galway may 2001 branded a cultural chernobyl and the tragic kingdom the euro disney resort has been on its own thrill ride since opening in 1992 the much publicized version of the magic kingdom gave europeans alcohol free mocktails surly employees even colors too muted for the disney image facing financial disaster was it any wonder that disney execs found themselves wishing upon a star for answers after so many knee jerk criticisms of euro disney this book combines firsthand experience and research to shed new light on claims that the park is nothing more than a form of american cultural imperialism andrew lainsbury a former euro disney employee who knows what the park meant to its visitors goes beyond media bites and academic scorn to examine europe s love hate relationship with euro disneyland and some of the undiscussed issues surrounding it once upon an american dream is a story of global capitalism on a grand scale lainsbury has plumbed company archives and interviewed key players to give readers the real view from le chateau de la belle au bois dormant sleeping beauty s castle he cracks open the euro disney controversy to reveal the park not as a tragic experiment in exporting american culture but the result of european efforts to import a popular form of american entertainment lainsbury tells how the walt disney company came to build a european park and locate it in france how political negotiations affected its design and development how it was promoted to continental audiences and what caused its widely publicized financial woes before being rescued by a real prince from saudi arabia he reveals what it took to win back the hearts of skeptical europeans such as serving wine selling flashy merchandise and placating disgruntled workers finally he looks into the magic mirror to speculate on the role of euro disney and the walt disney company in the twenty first century ultimately lainsbury shows that cultural imperialism is not an exclusively american phenomenon but a global corporate strategy and that global corporatism by needing to be responsive to consumers is so complex that it may not be as monolithic as feared once upon an american dream is a fairy tale for our times reminding us that for all the critical huffing and puffing the creation and marketing of pleasure is what euro disneyland is all about to cross boundaries to go beyond borders an evocative idea but what are the implications and consequences of transgression how are boundaries challenged redefined and overcome within the intricacies of taboos bodies and identities crossing cultural boundaries taboos bodies and identities brings together a range of articles that address this theme using different frameworks of interpretation as in the case of taboo boundaries are often internalised and may function as regulators for a society their existence becomes visible the moment they are violated the essays in this book explore voluntary and accidental encounters with boundaries not only from theoretical perspectives but also from the experience of those who are part of transitions on a regular basis in their everyday lives the notion of otherness is central to the articles in this book the definition and interpretation of cultural others become part and parcel of the process of negotiation of bodies and identities while the other is marked by outward bodily signs spaces taboos and cultural practices the self is empowered by resisting submission to dominant modes and descriptions deconstructing boundaries becomes part of the project of redefining the self this book will appeal to academics and researchers in communications cultural studies sociology health sciences anthropology literature and applied linguistics
