this study explores the relation of the eastern european problematic to postcolonial critical practice interrogating the extent to which postcolonialism can help illuminate instances of imperial domination in non third world contexts it argues that colonisation is to be understood principally as a condition of ideological domination that has engendered similar forms of literary and cultural resistance consequently it offers a comparative framework which enables a reading in differential contexts of texts that ostensibly have little in common but which on close examination reveal a shared imaginative space rhetoric and narrative agency the book consists of two interrelated parts part one is a critical discussion of the ideologies cultural imaginaries and representational practices articulated in a diverse range of representative postcolonial and post 1945 east central european texts these are shown to share despite dissimilar conditions of production uncannily related narrative modes and thematic emphases part two is a comparative literature case study which discusses two authors whose work is both highly representative of the cultural formations discussed in the first part milan kundera and salman rushdie and at the same time highly controversial the chapters dedicated to kundera s and rushdie s work examine the cultural geography of their novels particularly in the writers use of memory and story telling to reconfigure history and personal identity in conditions of literal and metaphorical displacement while their novels thrive on ironic subversion and ambiguity they simultaneously gesture towards a redemptive space of the imagination transcending the constraints of both locality and history a number of european authors who survived concentration camps ghettos and besieged cities in the middle of the twentieth century chose not to write straightforward memoirs or testimonials but instead to fictionalize their experiences by manipulating narrative time and point of view and altering biographical facts these writers produced literary texts that challenge common notions of what constitutes an appropriate representation of collective trauma how might such works provide a deeper understanding of historical truth than the facts alone what does the literature of the camps reveal about present day spaces of confinement worlds apart explores the ethics of representation by reading the works of writers who use the techniques of literary fiction to depict survival in these precarious spaces benjamin paloff traces the complex relationship between fact and truth in these texts disentangling writers individual experiences from fictional elements that universalize that experience and in so doing show the camp to be an institution of the present touring the unusual genre conventions of these works he weighs crucial questions about what constitutes truth in historical representation literature and the popular imagination reading across czech french german polish russian and yiddish including lesser known and untranslated works paloff considers portrayals of the shoah the gulag the warsaw ghetto uprising and the blockade of leningrad bold nuanced and rich in comparative insight worlds apart argues forcefully for the moral urgency of recognizing that the camp is not simply a historical artifact but a basic institution of contemporary society drawing on a variety of disciplines and documents professor agnew illuminates one of the most fascinating chapters in the formations of anglo american market culture worlds apart traces the history of our concepts of the marketplace and the theatre and the ways in which these concepts are bound together focusing on britain and america in the years 1550 to 1750 the book discusses the forms and conventions that structured both commerce and theatre as marketing practice broke free of its traditional boundaries and restraints it challenged longstanding popular assumptions about the constituents of value the nature of identity the signs of authenticity and the limits of liability new exchange relations bred new legal and commercial fictions to authorise them but they also bred new doubts about the precise grounds upon which the self and its interests were to be represented those same doubts professor agnew shows animated the theatre as well as actors and playwrights shifted from ecclesiastical and civic drama to professional entertainments they too devised authenticating fictions fictions that effectively replicated the bewildering representational confusions of the new placeless market
