kurt gödel's incompleteness theorems sent shivers through vienna's intellectual circles and directly challenged ludwig wittgenstein's dominant philosophy. alan turing's mathematical genius helped him break the nazi enigma code during wwii. though they never met, their lives strangely mirrored one another: both were brilliant and both met with tragic ends. here a mysterious narrator intertwines these parallel lives into a double helix of genius and anguish, wonderfully capturing not only two radiant fragile minds but also the zeitgeist of the era.

in his essay on patrick kavanagh, brendan kennelly writes: a poet's critical judgements are always at bottom necessary justifications of his own most dearly held aesthetic this selection of his critical writing is as illuminating in what it says about his own ideas and methods as it is about the writers whose work he discusses the book contains his essays on the major irish writers of the 20th century yeats joyce o casey macneice kavanagh austin clarke frank o connor flann o brien and liam o flaherty it brings together his writings on derek mahon joseph plunkett and george moore taken together they present his view that literature should be lucidly expressed rooted in the real world and true to the writer s experience and to the world s sufferings and joy kennelly believes that the light of poetry often finds its origins in the darkness of our natures and shares yeats s belief that poetry comes from exploring and struggling with the self
