in this major contribution to philosophy and rhetoric eugene garver shows how aristotle integrates logic and virtue in the rhetoric garver raises and answers a central question can there be a civic art of rhetoric an art that forms the character of citizens by demonstrating the importance of the rhetoric for understanding current philosophical problems of practical reason virtue and character garver has written the first work to treat the rhetoric as philosophy and to connect its themes with parallel problems in aristotle's ethics and politics this groundbreaking study will help put rhetoric at the center of investigations of practice and practical reason page 4 of cover responding to skeptics within higher education and critics without james crosswhite argues powerfully that the core of a college education should be learning to write a reasoned argument a trained philosopher and director of a university wide composition program crosswhite challenges his readers teachers of writing and communication philosophers critical theorists and educational administrators to reestablish the traditional role of rhetoric in education to those who have lost faith in the abilities of people to reach reasoned mutual agreements and to others who have attacked the right or wrong model of formal logic this book offers the reminder that the rhetorical tradition has always viewed argumentation as a dialogue a response to changing situations an exchange of persuading listening and understanding crosswhite's aim is to give new purpose to writing instruction and to students writing to reinvest both with the deep ethical interests of the rhetorical tradition in laying out the elements of argumentation for example he shows that claiming questioning and giving reasons are not simple elements of formal logic but communicative acts with complicated ethical features students must learn not only how to construct an argument but the purposes responsibilities and consequences of engaging in one crosswhite supports his aims through a rhetorical reconstruction of reason offering new interpretations of plato and aristotle and of the concepts of reflection and dialogue from early modernity through hegel to gadamer and in his conclusion he ties these theoretical and historical underpinnings to current problems of higher education the definition of the liberal arts and especially the teaching of written communication this book is the edition of the proceedings of the international colloquium rhetoric and argumentation in the beginning of the 21st century which was held at the faculty of letters of the university of coimbra in october 24 2008 and was organized by henrique jales ribeiro joaquim neves vicente and rui alexandre gillio the main purpose of the colloquium was to commemorate the publication in 1958 of the books la nouvelle rhétorique traité de l'argumentation and the uses of arguments by respectively c perelman l olbrechts tyteca and s toulmin but another important goal was to take stock of the state of rhetoric and argumentation theory at the beginning of a new century it was a unique event without parallel in portugal and worldwide considering its theme and its aims which gathered some of the world's most renowned rhetoric and argumentation theorists alan gross douglas walton erik krabbe frans v eemeren f snoeck henkemans guy haarscher john anthony blair marianne doury oswald ducrot ruth amossy the book includes a variety of very important contributions to rhetoric and argumentation theory ranging from those that naturally fall within the subject matter to the areas of philosophy linguistics communication theory education theory and law theory the art as it was called in the medieval curricula is no longer a discipline amongst others and has become according to the view of some specialists and largely owing to perelman and toulmin influences a new paradigm of rationality for our age which auspiciously encompasses all fields of knowledge and culture the book is divided into five parts i historical and philosophical studies on the influences of perelman and toulmin ii studies in argumentation theory iii linguistic approaches to argumentation theory iv rhetoric and communication theory education theory approaches to argumentation and v law theory approaches to argumentation the study of argumentation has primarily focused on logical and dialectical approaches with minimal attention given to the rhetorical facets of argument rhetorical argumentation principles of theory and practice approaches argumentation from a rhetorical point of view and demonstrates how logical and dialectical considerations depend on the rhetorical features of the argumentative situation throughout this text author christopher w tindale identifies how argumentation as a communicative practice can best be understood by its rhetorical features the editor has gathered together a body of writing in the emerging field of design studies the contributors argue in different ways for a rethinking of design in the light of its cultural significance and its powerful position in today s society the collection begins with a discussion of the various expressions of opposition to the modernists purist approach toward design drawing on postmodernist theory and other critical strategies the writers examine the relations among design technology and social organization to show how design has become a complex and multidisciplinary activity the second section provides examples of new methods of interpreting and analysing design ranging from rhetoric and semiotics to phenomenology demonstrating how meaning is created visually a final section related to design history shifts its emphasis to ideological frameworks such as capitalism and patriarchy that establish boundaries for the production and use of design this collection advances the study of context dependent characteristics of argumentative discourse by examining a variety of media genres in which text and image and other semiotic modes combine to create meaning the chapters have been written by an international group of senior and junior scholars researching multimodal argumentation in the last two decades in each chapter a specific approach to argumentation and rhetoric is combined with insights from visual studies metaphor theory scientific visualization cognitive science semiotics conversation analysis or documentary film theory in order to explain how multimodal genres function argumentatively and rhetorically together the chapters present a state of the art in the analysis of multimodal argumentation in such diverse genres as print advertisements news photographs scientific illustrations political cartoons documentaries film trailers political tv advertisements public debates and political speeches the volume will be of interest to advanced students and scholars in argumentation studies rhetoric and multimodal communication the goal of this book is to ascertain lessing s views on argumentation and rhetoric i intend to establish that these views constitute a systematic and coherent theory and to argue that for lessing rhetoric in argument can yield philosophical truth analysis of lessing s views also sheds light on the general significance of rhetoric in the 18th century the denial that rhetoric has claims to truth is a long standing prejudice of western thought this position is evident in kant s rejection of rhetoric in philosophical discourse but in my view the situation in the 18th century in germany was somewhat more complex rhetoric did not die a quiet death but was very much alive in polemical tracts and lessing was a pivotal figure in a culture dominated by argument and disputation i asked myself why and how this polemical age came to an end and how does the rejection of polemics by the 19th century affect our understanding of the 18th century in the introduction i address some of these questions and establish a historical framework for the development of polemics in the 18th century another reason this polemical age has traditionally been seen as problematic for the scholars of the period is because argument disputation and debate cannot be submitted to the same easy analysis as the systematic treatises produced at the end of the century the market leading guide to arguments writing arguments has proven highly successful in teaching readers to read arguments critically and to produce effective arguments of their own this text teaches students how to analyze verbal and visual arguments to argue more effectively and the different types of arguing to inquire to convince to persuade and to negotiate a chapter on researching arguments discusses library and online research and evaluating and using sources
