this book examines the institutional contexts of dramaturgical practices in the changing political landscape of 20th century germany through wide ranging case studies it discusses the way in which operationalised modes of action legal frameworks and an established profession have shaped dramaturgical practice and thus links to current debates around the institutional turn in theatre and performance studies german theatre represents a rich and well chosen field as it is here where the role of the dramaturg was first created and where dramaturgy played a significantly politicised role in the changing political systems of the 20th century the volume represents an important addition to a growing field of work on dramaturgy by contributing to a historical contextualisation of current practice in doing so it understands dramaturgy not only as a process which occurs in rehearsal rooms and writers studies but one that has far wider institutional and political implications
