like all crime and punishment military detention in the Australian army has a long and fraught history accommodating the king's hard bargain tells the gritty story of military detention and punishment dating from colonial times with a focus on the system rather than the individual soldier world war i was Australia's first experience of a mass army and the detention experience was complex encompassing short and long term detention from punishment in the field to incarceration in British and Australian military detention facilities the world war ii experience was similarly complex with detention facilities in England Palestine and Malaya mainland Australia and New Guinea eventually the management of army detention would become the purview of an independent specialist service with the end of the war the army reconsidered detention and based on lessons learned established a single corrective establishment its emphasis on rehabilitation as accommodating the king's hard bargain graphically illustrates the road from colonial experience to today's tri-service corrective establishment was long and rocky armies are powerful instruments but also fragile entities their capability resting on discipline it is in pursuit of this war-winning intangible that detention facilities are considered necessary a necessity that continues in the modern army justice in arms brings to life a fascinating and important element of Australia's legal history the role of army legal officers in Australia and in expeditionary operations from the Boer War until 2000 this is a comprehensive and absorbing history which describes the dynamic interaction of institutional and political imperatives and the personalities who managed this interaction over the decades it is populated by colourful characters and legal luminaries and demonstrates that military justice is rightly concerned with discipline and cohesiveness reflecting broader societal norms it is also concerned with the rule of law and respect for the rights liberties and fair treatment of those who serve in the armed forces justice in arms describes the extraordinary contribution of army legal officers to both the profession of arms and the development of the law charting the evolving personal and structural relationships between army legal officers and command dictated by the changing legal needs of the army and the broader Australian defence force today army legal officers apply adapt and shape the law to meet evolving needs in peacetime and during armed conflict and peace operations ensuring the legitimacy of military action and the maintenance of domestic and international support for national objectives in Vietnam in 1969 Keith Payne was leading a company of indigenous Montagnard soldiers when they were overrun by a large force of North Vietnam regulars when the company was withdrawn many wounded were left behind and Payne returned to the battlefield four times to rescue forty stragglers for this act of extreme bravery he was awarded the Victoria Cross but becoming the last Australian soldier to win this highest military decoration came at a price returning to civilian life he struggled for ten years in a haze of alcohol and prescription drugs a nightmare for him his wife and five sons he was eventually diagnosed as suffering from post-traumatic stress and for the past twenty years he has been a strong advocate for the rights of returned soldiers and their families in 2007 he sold all of his twenty medals including the Victoria Cross for an undisclosed sum this is not only the story of a brave and resilient Australian soldier but also a reflection on the high cost and futility of war first major clash with a communist army the Korean War was America's first ideological conflict and the first large scale clash between u s un forces and a communist army more than any other event it signaled the beginning of cold war mobilization for the u s and nato and even though the specter of international communism had since faded away the animosities of the forgotten war threaten to flare up even today focuses on military topics the korean war contains articles of varying lengths on key topics that range from the origins of the conflict ground naval and air operations and tactical planning to the truman macarthur face off the pow issue and armistice negotiations the bulk of the encyclopedia focuses on such military topics as the use of artillery the pioneering concept of helicopter evacuation of wounded new infantry tactics dictated by communist pow riots civil affairs larger military units and communications there are also articles on civilian and military leaders including president eisenhower general ridgeway kim il sung chou en lai syngman rhee and others special features articles written by experts in the field useful to librarians scholars researchers and students alike includes 48 maps and photographs covers an extraordinary range of key topics a chronology extensive bibliography and a subject index are included the story of the war in korea and of the part played by the reme from 1950 to 1953 as told by various individuals of that corps makes fascinating reading the support and devotion to their colleagues is most apparent but typical of the british soldier these experiences are balanced with a sense of sympathy for the unfortunate korean civilian population caught up in the conflict and it wouldn t be a true story of the british soldier without its sprinkling of squaddie humour john dutton has provided an excellent compilation of personal accounts in this comprehensive story of the royal electrical and mechanical engineers at war where the positioning of light aid detachments and field workshops was just as important to senior commanders in their tactical planning as was the medical back up of a regimental aid post or a field ambulance in june 1950 the north koreans invade south korea truman is reluctant to intervene but two weeks later a un resolution is passed setting up a unified command the south korean army and the hastily assembled and ill equipped american reinforcements from japan are driven back the war is transformed by general macarthur s amphibious assault the momentous decision is made to strike north across the 38th parallel towards the border with manchuria quite unexpectedly a new kind of war erupts as 1 3 million chinese troops pour over the border swamping un positions thus began the struggle which did not end until the armistice in 1953 and which saw the world teeter on the brink of a third world war to mark the 50th anniversary of the outbreak of the first and only war fought by the united nations against a communist aggressor nation this book provides a gripping account of a conflict in a faraway peninsula where young men battled and often died for principles they barely understood a one of a kind book which provides a look into the closed world of the vatican in rome from the perspective of the first australian ambassador to the holy see tim fischer as the first australian ambassador to the holy see tim fischer is in the unique position of being able to tell what it's really like in the seat of power in rome here he reflects on his time in the vatican the details which made up his life the protocols the people and also on the role that religion still has to play in the lives of future generations appointed by kevin rudd in 2009 tim found himself in the singular world of vatican diplomacy where even more than most diplomatic circles the right word in the right ear is an essential artform and where the person sitting next to you at dinner could be colonel gadafi or the pope armed with the skills he learned as an activist politician and with his trusty black akubra tim learned to navigate this strange new world and has lived to tell the tale includes entries for maps and atlases reconstructs the first 24 hours of the battle of kapyong detailing the actions of the 3rd battalion royal australian regiment 3 rar and those units and sub units that supported the battalion's defence of the routes down the kapyong river valley
