this comprehensive book helps readers process a clear picture of adult development and aging with the help and results of intensive scientific research it challenges common stereotypes about this subject matter and interprets the research data into an optimistic yet realistic appraisal of the many problems faced by the elderly in today's society chapter topics look at independence and intimacy in young adulthood responsibility and failure in the middle years the reintegration or despair of later life research methodology families careers personality development learning and memory intellectual and biological development mental disorders and death and bereavement for individuals who want to view the potential richness of life at all stages and or understand the lives of older adults they may care for chance development and aging analyzes a subject that has been largely ignored until now the sources of individual variations in development and aging that cannot be attributed to genes or the external environment and by doing so this book develops new insight on aging and the individual gathering and scrutinizing evidence from diverse sources the authors examine those differences in individuals that arise during development and those that might influence outcomes of aging through their research they pose a new set of questions about the contribution of chance events during development and although chance variations during development are well known within the sub fields of developmental biology there has been little recognition of their affects on variations in adult form and function here the authors confront this issue with a fascinating hypothesis chance variations in form and function arising through development affect individual base line functions and individual responses to the external environment and so modify outcomes of aging this book will undoubtedly benefit gerontologists geneticists reproductive biologists and physiologists and it will fascinate all those interested in the outcomes of aging with increasing numbers of the population living into old age we need a better understanding of the nature and experience of ageing in all its aspects up to now very few texts have considered this in any depth but ageing and development a new volume in the texts in developmental psychology series provides a detailed and comprehensive overview of the theories and research in adult development into old age the classic early accounts of theorists such as jung and erikson are considered as well as their present day successors particular attention is given to theories of adjustment to loss and to the threat of loss which dominate current gerontological research a notable feature of the book is the separate section devoted to the psychology of advanced old age to life in states of physical and or mental frailty and to the survival of the self in these circumstances there is a strong emphasis throughout on up to date empirical research and illustrative case examples the reader is constantly encouraged to take a critical perspective to understand the strengths and limitations of different studies and to think about the issues raised in terms of their own lives human development in adulthood is a comprehensive multidisciplinary overview of adult development in a number of areas both personal and societal from mental and physical health to economic and social conditions variables including race gender economic status and political and religious affiliation are considered in the discussion of such human issues as love and marital relations economic concerns including employment and living conditions violence in its various forms including crime and war aging and death the numerous illustrations chapter summaries and glossary will prove especially useful to students this volume is an outgrowth of contemporary research on development over the adult lifespan which by now has burgeoned and developed both nationally and internationally however for us the impetus to be involved in this area was spawned and nurtured by our initial association with the society for research in adult development srad with its origins some 15 years ago by michael commons and his associates in cambridge massachusetts through the good will and support of this society we also became and are still heavily involved with the journal of adult development and the kluwer plenum monograph series on adult development and aging of which this volume is a companion many of the contributions in the volume are from srad members who consistently adhere to a focus on positive adult development their chapters have been complemented by pieces from other researchers who have adopted more mainstream approaches to adult development and aging regardless of the particular approach and or focus of the chapter all the work reported herein supports the relatively recent idea that development is not restricted to children and adolescents but continues throughout the adult lifespan in ways that we never envisioned some 20 years ago thus the volume represents state of the art theory research and practice on adult development which has the potential to occupy us all for some time to come the field of emotions research has recently seen an unexpected period of growth and expansion both in traditional psychological literature and in gerontology the handbook of emotion adult development and aging provides a broad
