the need for theory speaks to the burgeoning need for critical thinking in social gerontology the editors have brought together some of the foremost contributors to theoretical advances in the field this volume incorporates state of the art theorizing with a focus on selected topical areas facing gerontologists around the world using their keen insights into substantive issues the contributors examine personal and structural changes affecting individuals over the life course extolling the need for theory is not enough the contributors focus their insights on a panoply of substantive issues linking the personal with the political and with the structural parameters that shape the process of aging no matter where it occurs this sage handbook integrates basic research on social dimensions of aging it presents programmatic applications of research in areas not often seen in handbooks including imprisonment technology and aging urban society aged and elderly migration the authors constitute a who's who of international gerontology and the focus on globalization and aging is unique among handbooks today this handbook should be in the library of every social gerontologist vern l bengtson professor of gerontology university of southern california this volume reflects the emergence of ageing as a global concern including chapters by international scholars from asia australasia europe and north america it provides a comprehensive overview of key trends and issues in the field drawing upon the full range of social science disciplines the handbook is organized into five parts each exploring different aspects of research into social aspects of ageing disciplinary overviews summaries of findings from key disciplinary areas within social gerontology social relationships and social differences explores area like social inequality gender religion inter generational ties social networks and friendships individual characteristics and change in later life examines different aspects of individual aging including self and identity cognitive processes and bio social interactions and their impact on physical and psychological aging comparative perspectives and cultural innovations topics include ageing and development ageing in a global context migration and cross cultural perspectives on grandparenthood policy issues covering policy concerns such as long term care technology and older people end of life issues work and retirement and the politics of old age this will be essential reading for all students researchers and policy makers concerned with the major issues influencing the lives of older people across the globe drawing on theoretical perspectives from sociology psychology and biology the authors aim to introduce the reader to an understanding of the ageing process and to present a more positive view of human ageing far from a dictionary the concepts are portrayed as complex and conflicting definitions and usages are both noted and evaluated each article includes a necessarily selective set of references and cross references to other concepts included in the book moreover the coverage and evaluation of the concepts is right at the current leading edge in a rapidly moving field victor marshall department of sociology and institute on aging university of north carolina at chapel hill the concepts are very clear and very relevant and fantastic for my group of undergraduate students i found each concept to be succinctly and simply captured holding enough information to satisfy initial cravings and complex enough to tempt further reading i had originally thought that this book would provide supplementary reading as part of my healthy ageing course but have changed my mind to essential reading now i have had the opportunity to read the entire book dr meredith tavener groningen university social gerontology is a new and dynamic field reflecting the increasing interest in ageing across the world this book provides a readily accessible guide to well established and contested issues as well as new concepts emerging through cutting edge research in the discipline the entries give concise lucid knowledge on what constitutes the building blocks of social gerontology and sets out a clear review of the core concepts both classic and emerging in this subject area each concept is explored in terms of its history application usefulness to theory and research and significance in practice they go beyond simple definitions of the concepts to look at how each issue has shaped the discipline of social gerontology today this book is authored by social gerontologists from the uk and the usa together they present an interdisciplinary perspective and reflect a global approach to the presentation of key concepts in social gerontology old age is a part of the lifecycle about which there are numerous myths and stereotypes to present an overstatement of commonly held beliefs the old are portrayed as dependent individuals characterized by a lack of social autonomy unloved and neglected by both their immediate family and friends and posing a threat to the living standards of younger age groups by being a burden that consumes without producing older people are perceived as a single homogeneous group and the experiment of ageing characterized as being the same for all individuals irrespective of the diversity of their circumstances before the onset of old age in this book detailed statistical material is used to portray the circumstances of older people in modern society in an attempt to evaluate the appropriateness or otherwise of the major stereotypes of later life this volume does not address ageing from a psychological or micro social perspective in particular we do not explore major issues relating to old age rather we feel that from the extensive collection of surveys concerned with the elderly we can provide a context within which individual elderly people can be studied from more anthropological or biographical perspectives this accessible introduction to key concepts methods and issues in social gerontological research presents a unique view of the research process by focusing on the relationships between conceptual definition and research methodology and between research policy and practice at a theoretical level the text draws on the core gerontological concepts of age dependency social support and quality of life to illustrate their complexity and the difficulties of measurement on a practical level the contributors present a number of methodological approaches which have been particularly useful in social gerontological research finally they consider three critical issues whether old people require special ethical consideration the prospects for funding and the importance of disseminating research effectively researching social gerontology has been specially commissioned by the british society for gerontology to outline current thinking in conceptual and methodological development and the context in which gerontological research is being carried out as such it will prove stimulating and useful for researchers at all levels practitioners policy makers and those with a more general interest in the ageing process this volume intends to re establish social gerontology as a discipline that has pragmatic links to policy and practice collectively the chapters enrich public debates about the moral cultural and economic questions surrounding aging thereby ameliorating the problems associated with aging societies this volume is uniquely cross cultural theory driven and cross disciplinary it fills a gap in the gerontological scholarship of the global south that is predominantly descriptive and empirical based on original research this volume examines in particular the sociological question of inequality and its intersection with age gender health family and social relations in the process the studies herein highlight the unique historical institutional and social systems that govern the subjective experience of aging in diverse contexts globally specifically societies in transition including india lebanon nigeria japan china israel and in europe are studied while connecting the micro social experience of aging loneliness wellbeing discrimination relationships and resilience with larger temporal and political contexts this exercise generates intellectual capital that reformulates links between aging research and policy in innovative ways overall the volume echoes the global scientific commitment to understand the socio cultural process of aging in transitional societies and utilizes rich opportunities for cross fertilization of ideas disciplines and methods to advance the gerontological promise of critical inquiry training and practice this edited volume addresses the methodological challenges entailed in studying the process of ageing and life course changes as well as the experience of being old the book focuses on the theory and practice of doing research using a wide range of examples and case studies aging is a fact of life we see our parents and grandparents go through it we even see ourselves go through it as we get older we enter a distinct stage of life complete with its own biological issues and psychological and social ones too yet most books on social aging ignore the psychological and biological aspects of aging that make the social issues so important this book provides a complete look at aging so that we can better understand the older stage of life for both ourselves and those around us this book presents a multidisciplinary perspective on social aging it takes the approach of the older person in context and how age related changes in the biological functional and psychological domains can influence the older person s interactions with his her social and physical environment unique features include an original approach a multidisciplinary perspective a framework based on research findings and attention to differences by age gender ethnic minority status sexual orientation and socio economic class social workers psychologists gerontology professionals and professors
