this essential anthology presents thirteen acclaimed works by the nobel prize winning author of blindness with an introduction by ursula le guin this collection available exclusively in e book form brings together twelve novels and one novella of the great portuguese writer josé saramago from saramago s early work like the enchanting baltasar blimunda and the controversial gospel according to jesus christ through his masterpiece blindness and its sequel seeing to his later fables of politics chance history and love like all the names and death with interruptions this volume showcases the range and depth of saramago s career his inimitable narrative voice and his vast reserves of invention humor and understanding a strange protest triggers a descent into paranoia and chaos in this illuminating parable a sequel to the nobel prize winning author s blindness ursula k le guin the guardian uk on election day in the capital it is raining so hard that no one has bothered to come out to vote the politicians are growing jittery should they reschedule the elections for another day around three o clock the rain finally stops voters promptly rush to the polling stations as if they had been ordered to appear but when the ballots are counted more than 70 percent are blank in response to this mass act of rebellion a state of emergency is declared but are the authorities acting blindly the word evokes terrible memories of the plague of blindness that hit the city four years before and of the one woman who kept her sight perhaps she is the one behind the blank ballots a police superintendent is put on the case what begins as a satire on governments and the dubious efficacy of the democratic system turns into something far more sinister as the story unfolds the humor is still tender but the tone darkens tension rises ursula k le guin the guardian uk

a fictional account of the life of christ illuminated by ferocious wit gentle passion and poetry from the nobel prize winning author of skylight los angeles times book review for josé saramago the life of jesus christ and the story of his passion were things of this earth a child crying a gust of wind the caress of a woman half asleep the bleat of a goat or the bark of a dog a prayer uttered in the grayish morning light the holy family reflects the real complexities of any family but this is realism filled with vision dream and omen saramago s deft psychological portrait of a savior who is at once the son of god and a young man of this earth is an expert interweaving of poetry and irony spirituality and irreverence the result is nothing less than a brilliant skeptic s wry inquest into the meaning of god and of human existence enough to assure saramago a place in the universal library and in human memory the nation fiction that engages the mind as well as the spirit kirkus reviews mixes magic myth and reality into a potent brew booklist praise for josé saramago the greatest writer of our time chicago tribune a literary master the boston globe saramago is the most tender of writers with a clear eyed and compassionate acknowledgment of things as they are and a quality that can only be termed wisdom we should be grateful when it is handed to us in such generous measure the new york times saramago s fiction operates in a realm not far from fable the territory of kafka gogol and borges los angeles times a man went to knock at the king s door and said give me a boat the king s house had many other doors but this was the door for favours favours being offered to the king you understand whenever he heard someone knocking on the door for petitions he would pretend not to hear why the petitioner required a boat where he was bound for and who volunteered to crew for him and what cargo it was found to be carrying the reader will discover as this short narrative unfolds and at the end it will be clear that what might appear to be a children's fable is in fact a wry witty philosophical tale that would not have displeased voltaire or swift

despite the heavy rain the officer at polling station 14 finds it odd that by midday on national election day only a handful of voters have turned out puzzlement swiftly escalates to shock when the final count reveals seventy per cent of the votes are blank national law decrees the election should be repeated but the result is even worse the authorities seized with panic decamp from the capital and declare a state of emergency when apathy and disillusionment renders an entire democratic system useless what happens next a study guide for jose saramago's blindness excerpted from gale's acclaimed novels for students this concise study guide includes plot summary character analysis author biography study questions historical context suggestions for further reading and much more for any literature project trust novels for students for all of your research needs combining bitter satire outrageous parody and uncanny hallucinations this collection of josé saramago's earliest stories from the beginning of his writing career attests to the novelist's imaginative power and incomparable skill in elaborating the most extravagant fantasies each tale is a wicked surreal take on life under dictatorship in embargo a man drives around a city that is slowly running out of petrol the chair recounts what happens when dictator salazar falls off his chair and dies in the kafkaesque things the life of a civil servant is threatened as objects start to go missing nobel prize winner josé saramago tells a quiet and poetic story an excerpt from his book small memories of a lasting childhood experience of simple soulful joy the narrator s memories of a lost childhood paradise focus on two glorious days when he helped his uncle take some piglets to the market in santarém they traverse dusty roads sleep in a barn and awake to a miraculous moonglow and hear the animals in their infinite conversations the journey the night the wind the light this poetic story is an unforgettable adventure narrated by josé saramago and presented alongside armando fonseca s fanciful and evocative illustrations a very special gift for readers of all ages international award winner a beautifully illustrated story book for kids 4 8 about the importance of nature and community from nobel prize winner josé saramago the sea is the universe close to us here is the story of a man who lives at the water s edge watching the rise and fall of the shoreline it is the sea itself that gives him everything he needs to survive and yet it will take courage to enter the sometimes roaring waters the man knows that this sea that gives him everything can also take it away but with the help of friends and with patience he knows the sea can be a balm and a source of life a poetic story that will resonate with anyone who has spent time near the sea listening to the sound of the waves with bright and beautiful water color art by amanda mijangos this simple story from the notebooks of nobelist saramago will excite and intrigue the youngest readers and all of those who read along with them the white rose is guarded closely by the gardener who once caught a cold walking barefoot trying to find his shoes which had been hidden by a cat which was a gift from his younger brother who was married to dalva who had inherited the cat from her uncle who died of a broken heart awaiting a love letter that never arrived eventually we see how one tiny action can have marvelous consequences and the story turns like a ferris wheel with a playful lightness of touch mello explores serious questions about the importance of kindness and the dangers of greed mello s illustrations will inspire his young readers providing them with familiar and approachable images while encouraging imagination to fill in the narrative gaps as he captures the mysteries of childhood through rich vibrant imagery this book celebrates experimental translation taking a series of exploratory looks at the hypercyborg translator the collage translator the smuggler translator and the heteronymous translator the idea isn't to legislate traditional translations out of existence or to win some kind of literary competition with the source text but an exuberant participation in literary creativity turns out there are other things you can do with a great written work and there is considerable pleasure to be had from both the doing and the reading of such things this book will be of interest to literary translation studies researchers as well as scholars and practitioners of experimental creative writing and avant garde art postgraduate translation students and professional literary translators seen through the eyes of the author this volume of travel writing reveals a portugal of fascinating people landscapes and hidden treasures as well as the inner thoughts of a highly original mind a wonderfully twisted meditation on identity and individuality from a nobel prize winning author who pushes fiction to its very limits the boston globe as this novel by the author of blindness and all the names begins tertuliano máximo afonso is a divorced depressed history teacher to lift his spirits a colleague suggests he rent a certain video tertuliano watches the film unimpressed but during the night when he is awakened by noise he finds the vcr replaying the video and watches in astonishment as a man who looks exactly like him or more specifically exactly like he did five years earlier mustachioed and fuller in the face appears on the screen against his own better judgment tertuliano decides to pursue his double as he roots out the man s identity what begins as a whimsical chase becomes a probing investigation into what makes us human can we be reduced to our outward appearance rather than the sum of our experiences the inspiration for the film enemy starring jake gyllenhaal and directed by denis villeneuve the double is a timeless novel from a writer john updike described in the new yorker as like faulkner so confident of his resources and ultimate destination that he can bring any impossibility to life by hurling words at it it s tempting to think of the double as his masterpiece the new york times translated from the portuguese by margaret jull costa a winkingly blasphemous retelling of the old testament by the nobel prize winning author of the gospel according to the jesus christ the new yorker in josé saramago final novel he daringly reimagines the characters and narratives of the old testament placing the despised murderer cain in the role of protagonist this epic tale ranges from the garden of eden when god realizes he has forgotten to give adam and eve the gift of speech to the moment when noah s ark lands on the dry peak of ararat condemned to wander forever after he kills his brother abel cain makes his way through the world in the company of a personable donkey he is a witness to and participant in the stories of isaac and abraham the destruction of the tower of babel mooses and the golden calf and the trials of job again and again cain encounters a god whose actions seem callous cruel and unjust he confronts him he argues with him and one thing we know for certain saramago writes is that they continued to argue and are arguing still cain s vagabond journey builds to a stunning climax that like the book itself is a fitting capstone to a remarkable career publishers weekly starred review this ebook includes a sample chapter of jose saramago s blindness
