The actor creates a physical score for a scene mapping out their movements and emotional progression before embarking on the performance. This helps in 3 controlling physicality and expressing emotion precisely. Mirror Work. Facing a mirror, the actor explores subtle changes in their facial expression, posture and movement to convey a range of emotions, enhancing body awareness and emotional control. Key Takeaways. It emphasizes the actors body as a central instrument for emotional expression, demanding rigorous physical and psychological training. This method fosters Authenticity.
