the rhetoric about superheads and mavericks that has been prevalent in some of the recent discourse about leadership dean fink draws heavily upon the work of andy hargreaves michael fullan and his own research with louise stoll so some of the ideas are familiar however what makes leadership for mortals interesting is the way in which he untangles the complexities of leadership by using genuine examples alongside the theory dean fink s writing is accessible and his anecdotal style should resonate with his intended audience of current and prospective leaders ldr the magazine for school leaders this book is a welcome antidote to the notion of school leaders as heroic figures dean fink s commitment to enhancing the life chances of young people shines through the pages kate myers times educational supplement with great wisdom and insight dean fink invites us into his leadership stories to masterfully illustrate that school leadership is no longer a person but an intricate network of mortals working together to enhance learning experiences for students they are truly leaders of learning where commitment to successful learning for all students is the locus of their passion perseverance and persuasion balanced with connections to respected leadership literature this lucid and eloquent book will inspire current and future school leaders to reflect and develop their leadership practice to higher levels of effectiveness an outstanding and optimistic read for all school leadership mortals practitioners and scholars alike i enjoyed it immensely david eddy director first time principals programme the university of auckland practitioners will find this book at the same time reassuring and challenging fink includes stories of leadership that highlight effective strategies and some approaches that have gone wrong they are real and ring true and therefore credible and instructive ken thompson principal gladstone park secondary college australia a great story about schools and their leaders progressing towards a knowledge driven world and the roads they choose to travel building sustainable communities of practice and the credible
