essay from the year 2009 in the subject english literature works grade 2 university of munster language english abstract ecocriticism is still on its academic margins nevertheless depending on the text one deals with nature plays a vital role in understanding and analyzing literature 1 the present essay focuses on the views of nature in the short story the de wets come to kloof grange by doris lessing 2 the dictionary defines nature as everything that exists in the world independently of people such as plants and animals earth and rocks and the weather 3 yet in order to analyze nature in its literary context it is important to point out that culture has a great impact on nature and its understanding 4 to analyze the view of nature it is vital to recognize that the nature culture distinction is not always absolute and clear cut 5 there is nature and culture and states partaking in both barry introduces the outdoor environment as a series of adjoining and overlapping areas which move gradually from nature to culture 6 to answer the question how nature is displayed within the story and hence to be able to draw a conclusion from these particular views of nature different areas will be used to classify nature in its cultural context taking barry s classification⁷ into account the view of nature in the story the de wets come to kloof grange 8 will in the following be associated with three distinctive areas area one is referred to as the scenic sublime it includes for instance forests mountains and rivers moreover there is area two the countryside which implies hills fields woods etc the greatest impact of culture can be found in area three the domestic picturesque it describes such things as parks and gardens the development of doris lessing s art from the traditional realism of her early novels to modernist works like the golden notebook and briefing for a descent into hell has been criticised as escapism a detailed formal and thematic analysis of three representative novels shows that the modernism of doris lessing s later work is a result of the author s radicalized understanding of our collective alienation far from indicating a betrayal of her humanistic commitment it is a measure of the sincerity of this author s concern with the ancient dream of free man now a firmly established part of world literature course offerings in many general education curricula african literature is no longer housed exclusively with african studies programs and is often studied in english french portuguese women s studies and comparative studies departments this book helps fill the great need for research materials on this topic presenting the best resources available for 300 african writers these writers have been carefully selected to include both well known writers and those less commonly studied yet highly influential they are drawn from both the sub sahara and the maghreb the major geographical regions of africa the study of africa was introduced into the curriculum of institutions of higher learning in the united states in the 1960s when the black consciousness movement in the united states and the cold war and decolonization movements in africa created a need for the systematic study of other regions of the world between 1986 and 1991 three africans won nobel literature prizes soyinka mahfouz and gordimer and the visibility of african writers increased they are now a firmly established part of world literature courses in many general education curricula throughout north america african writers is meant to serve as a resource for introductory material on 300 writers from 39 countries these writers were selected on the basis on two criteria that there is material on them in an easily available reference work and that there is some information of research value on free sites each writer is from the late 19th or 20th century with the notable exception of olaudah equiano an 18th century african whose slave narrative is generally considered the first work of african literature all entries are annotated
