the stated purpose of this phenomenological psychoanalytic study is to make the phenomenon of self destruction and its vicissitudes intelligible it presents the nature of the relationship between the essence of technology and the essence of self destructiveness the conventional approach to suicide is psychiatric ask the average person why people kill themselves and they will likely cite depression but this approach fails to recognize suicide's social causes people kill themselves because of breakups and divorces because of lost jobs and ruined finances because of public humiliations and the threat of arrest while some psychological approaches address external stressors this comprehensive study is the first to systematically examine suicide as a social behavior with social catalysts drawing on Donald Black's theories of conflict management and pure sociology suicide presents a new theory of the social conditions that compel an aggrieved person to turn to self destruction interpersonal conflict plays a central but underappreciated role in the incidence of suicide examining a wide range of cross cultural cases Jason Manning argues that suicide arises from increased inequality and decreasing intimacy and that conflicts are more likely to become suicidal when they occur in a context of social inferiority as suicide rates continue to rise around the world this timely new theory can help clinicians scholars and members of the general public to explain and predict patterns of self destructive behavior the first international Leo Kanner colloquium on child development deviations and treatment explores relationships between experimental research normal development and interventions with early infantile autism as a reference model of relatively unambiguous abnormal development sponsored by the treatment and education of autistic and related communications handicapped children TEACCH project at the university of north carolina at chapel hill the colloquium tackled the challenge of facilitating communications among scientists of different disciplines working in a specialized area the meeting proved successful in generating an interplay and information exchange among scientists of diverse academic and professional orientation who if not completely able to agree on common factors did nevertheless achieve awareness and clarification of their differences the TEACCH conference and this volume have implications for all research efforts within and outside the domain of mental health this is particularly so at a time of limited dollar resources for research support the present and foreseeable future represent such a time one when communication among fields resource competition between basic and applied research biomedical versus psychosocial research and the question of research utilization assume a new commanding significance thus the question of accountability for research has come to the fore why do we knowingly act in ways that undermine our own wellbeing like loving the wrong person or staying in an unfulfilling job why are ideologies so compelling why are we so convinced that our own deeply held views are irrefutable the logic of self destruction argues that our beliefs are at the heart of our problems and that if we can see the human brain for what it really is a robustly logical computing device we can finally understand how those beliefs are really formed Matthew Blakeway's jovial and engaging multidisciplinary argument applies a logician's rigour to genetics linguistics socio biology and evolutionary psychology to investigate the unique human ability to affect and suppress emotions in showing how everything from the British stiff upper lip to abusive relationships from the rise of fundamentalist regimes to the failure of economies stem from this problem he provides new tools for understanding our motivations and shaping our futures in the logic of self destruction Matthew Blakeway takes the reader on an fascinating journey through the logic of human behaviour he uses a series of thought experiments based in everyday situations to reveal how we manipulate our emotions tactically as individuals social tribes and societies and explores the consequences of this he challenges the assumption that happiness is an innate instinctive human emotion and demonstrates what mystical higher states of being have in common with art appreciation he investigates the suppression of emotional behaviour in groups to explain how humiliation on the parade ground turns a soldier into a killer and how totalitarian regimes are perpetuated he reveals why ideology is more powerful than scientific evidence and explains why climate change denial and even genocide can be explained rationally this book provides a conceptual analysis of islamist extremism and examines radical islamist rhetoric and various extremist groups engaging in a conceptual analysis of islamist extremism that focuses on the what is and not the why of islamist extremism the book extends the traditional parameters of analysis from context specific and temporally confined causal analyses to a broader conceptual analysis relevant to the many different temporal and geo political contexts of islamist extremist groups invites the reader to rethink their attitudes towards self destructive behavior rehab is for quitters let s face it there are thousands of books out there to help you avoid self destructive behavior but what fun is that welcome to the first book designed to help you not help yourself here you ll find unsound advice on everything from engineering a revenge affair to picking the gateway drug that s best for you chapters include 12 steps to a drinking problem condoms are for suckers how to lose way too much weight in 90 days and more as you travel down the road to self destruction let this hedonistic handbook be your guide it may steer you wrong in fact it s sure to do so but when being wrong is this much fun who wants to be right the body has always had the potential to unsettle us with its strange exigencies and suppurations its demands and desires and thus throughout the ages it has continued to be a subject of interest and obsession this collection of twelve peer reviewed essays on jacques lacan and michel foucault interrogates the body in all of its beauty and with all of its blights and blemishes written by a diverse body of scholars art historians cultural theorists english professors philosophers psychoanalysts and sociologists from north america and europe these essays bring into conversation two intellectual giants frequently seen as antagonists and thus rarely seen together topics covered include the intersections of foucault and lacan and how they bring to light new thoughts on the senses the self destructive body ableism and disability in guillermo del toro s film the shape of water body image and the ego selfie culture and metamorphosis in ottessa moshfegh s novel my year of rest and relaxation among others first published in 1997 living in the global society reflects on the fundamental concept of global economy as the driving force for development and examines how ethical values can direct this towards the welfare of humankind in a future where peace will reign the contributions stem from an international conference held in rome on economic growth for what kind of future the book examines four main themes development and underdevelopment globalization in the fields of economics finance trade migration and culture the shape of the world to come through management of resources and goods and finally the challenge of globalization moving from fragmentation towards social growth based on cooperation and integration it is suggested that only a civil society that is also developed at an international level can provide the basis for a true global democracy and true peace this book asks how far are we along the path towards its creation this book includes selected peer reviewed papers presented at fourth international conference on computing and communication networks icccn 2024 held at manchester metropolitan university uk during 17 18 october 2024 the book covers topics of network and computing technologies artificial intelligence and machine learning security and privacy communication systems cyber physical systems data analytics cyber security for industry 4 0 and smart and sustainable environmental systems many people in our world suffer severely in silence unaware of the seriousness of their depressed thinking unable to see a path out of that state of thought their inner life is absolute hell their thought patterns can lead to drastic behaviors including drug dependency substance abuse suicide attempts other people in the lives of the depressed individuals can t imagine the kinds of thoughts that repeat themselves over over in the minds of the suffering ones to these others there seems to be no observable reason for the suffering one to feel as terrible as he she feels yet that is the reality the author published the book for two reasons 1 to help those suffering major depression to see in print some of their thought patterns realize that they are not alone 2 to enable those sufferers to see a path of thoughts that may help them to slowly work their way out of the inner disaster they live w regularly it takes time consistent effort but it is possible in the case of the author he has been able to progress far enough to be able to live w o depression anxiety medicines without substance abuse if you find your thoughts in the first section of this book you are a prisoner of your own thinking unable to experience life in a way that brings you peace fulfillment begin to realize that what you repeat over over in your thinking is not the truth it is your mental illness telling you awful things about yourself you probably have said awful things about yourself for a long time in order to change your life you must begin to practice different thoughts use ideas from the second third sections of the book repeat them over over to start replacing the self destructive thoughts remember you have practiced the self destructive thoughts for a long time it will take extended practice of new thoughts to change to a healthier life only by repeated practice can you begin to tear away the awful weights of self destructive thinking what is self destruction any activity that is detrimental or might be damaging to the individual who participates in it is considered self destructive behavior the disordered use of alcohol is a kind of harmful behavior many individuals have shown self destructive actions throughout the years suicide is at one extreme of the spectrum on which it exists self destructive behavior may be willful impulsive or formed into a habit however the phrase is often used to refer to self destruction that might be lethal habit forming or addictive and hence fatal self destructive conduct is often linked to mental diseases including schizophrenia borderline personality disorder or attention deficit hyperactivity disorder how self destructive behavior where originated when freud and ferenczi first realized how traumatic events influenced children s development in 1895 they began to study self destructive conduct children who were nurtured in an unfavorable atmosphere were more likely to act out and engage in self destructive conduct according to freud and ferenczi freud came to the conclusion that one s ego or superego and hostility impact one s self destructive actions the severity of one s damaging conduct will rise based on how highly influenced one is the major cause of one s superego is guilt for instance having alcoholic parents as children might make someone more likely to engage in self destructive conduct since the parents feel bad about not getting them the care they needed they believe their parents failed because of them since they were unable to assist them in overcoming these challenges then as a coping strategy for their failure and remorse they injure themselves freud also claims that personal motivation influences violence in self destructive conduct social variables may be as significant in this as cultural and environmental elements are for instance if a kid experienced bullying throughout middle school he or she would act out in self destructive ways to cope such as shouting or self harm through their research freud and ferenczi developed the theory that those who engage in self destructive behavior experience forbidden fantasies not memories which states that because the behavior is forbidden those who engage in self destructive behavior experience a stronger drive to engage in it self destructive conduct may take on a variety of shapes and manifestations that range from person to person as a result each individual has a unique superego and level of hostility get a copy of this book to know more
