an innovative up to date treatment of ancient greek mobility and migration from 1000 bce to 30 bce a companion to greeks across the ancient world explores the mobility and migration of greeks who left their homelands in the ten centuries between the early iron age and the hellenistic period while most academic literature centers on the greeks of the aegean basin area this unique volume provides a systematic examination of the history of the other half of the ancient greek world contributions from leading scholars and historians discuss where migrants settled their new communities and their connections and interactions with both aegean greeks and non greeks divided into three parts the book first covers ancient and modern approaches and the study of the ancient greeks outside their homelands including various intellectual national and linguistic traditions regional case studies form the core of the text taking a microhistory approach to examine greeks in the near eastern empires greek celtic interactions in central europe greek established states in central asia and many others throughout europe africa and asia the closing section of the text discusses wider themes such as the relations between the greek homeland and the edges of greek civilization reflecting contemporary research and fresh perspectives on ancient greek culture contact this volume discusses the development and intersection of mobility migration and diaspora studies examines the various forms of ancient greek mobility and their outcomes highlights contributions to cultural development in the greek and non greek world examines wider themes and the various forms of ancient greek mobility and their outcomes includes an overview of ancient terminology and concepts modern translations numerous maps and full references a companion to greeks across the ancient world is a valuable resource for students instructors and researchers of classical antiquity as well as non specialists with interest in ancient greek mobilities migrations and diasporas

the need for a new book on greek colonization arose to analyse this phenomenon as a long term process in a wide geographic area the events related to individual cities and regions although geographically very distant from each other are linked through an articulated network of material and immaterial relations and have to be considered as part of a broader mobility process in a mediterranean perspective the intention of comparing greek colonies is to bring geographically and culturally distant regions such as southern italy sicily and the black sea closer together not merely to find similarities and differences but to broaden the scholars perspective and overcome existing generalizing and biased models that are often rooted in local scientific traditions the proceedings of the international conference comparing greek colonies mobility and settlement consolidation from southern italy to the black sea 8th 6th century bc 7 9 11 2018 in rome are structured around three core topics economic system relationships with the indigenous populations social and territorial systems that constitute the cornerstones of the political formation of the polis in the archaic period and for its development during the classical and hellenistic ages political conversations in ciceronian rome offers for the first time a perspective of roman politics through the proxy of conversations and meetings in rome oral was the default mode of communication in politics oratory before the people in assemblies addresses and discussions in the senate speeches in the law courts rumours and public opinion we are familiar with the notion that the roman political world of the late republic included lofty speeches and sessions of the senate but an important aspect of late republican politics revolved around senators talking among themselves chatting off in the corner only when they could not reach each other in person roman senators and their peers resorted to letters this book intends to analyse political conversations and illuminate the oral dimension of roman politics it posits that the study of politics should not be restricted to the senatorial group but that other persons should be considered as important political actors with their own agency albeit in different degrees such as freedmen and elite women it argues that roman senators and their entourages met in person to have conversations in which they discussed politics circulated political information and negotiated strategies this extra institutional sphere had a relevant impact both on politics and institutions as well as determined how the roman republic functioned this study explores roman luxury villa lifestyle and architecture to shed light on the villas design as a dynamic process related to cultural social and environmental factors through an analysis of five villas from around the bay of naples it shows how the romans developed a sophisticated interplay between architecture and landscape the settlements made by greeks in archaic italy have largely been seen in terms of colonies duplicated from and heavily dependant on mainland greece the scarcity of the literary sources for this period makes the archaeological record crucial franco de angelis makes use of both the archaeological and what literary evidence there is in reconstructing a history of megara hyblaia and selinous two settlements established by the greeks during the late eighth and mid seventh century bc he looks at the existing environment and political setting the greeks found when they arrived the development of the settlements including the extent of their territory and influence society and politics and environment and economy throughout an emphasis is placed on the individual nature of the settlements and their development based on the particular circumstances that existed in sicily rather than seeing them as copies of city states on mainland greece book jacket juxtaposing contemporary artworks with the archeological wonders of sicily may sound gimmicky but the result intelligently overseen by noted italian art critic alessandro riva provides some fascinating correspondences the compositional style of a mosaic like painting from sandro chia resonates with an ancient mosaic in the piazza armerina a new mimmo rotella décollage honors a bronze satyr recently rescued from the sea there s even a place here for as conceptually minded an artist as wim delvoye whose industrial canisters decorated in the manner of fine dutch ceramics remind us that the amphoras they are placed among from the archaeological museum of lipari were also utilitarian objects other participating artists are luigi ontani aron demetz paola gandolfi carlo maria mariani ryan mendoza luca pignatelli and velasco their work an acknowledgement of how the ancient past has nurtured contemporary visions
