most of the jesus followers in rome would have been familiar with socioeconomic hardship suffering was a daily reality either for themselves or for someone they knew many lived below or just above subsistence level some were slaves homeless or chronically sick followers of christ might have experienced persecution because of their refusal to take part in the local religious festivals suffering is of course a significant theme in romans 5 1 11 and 8 17 18 39 paul mentions various types of affliction many times in these texts how might paul s audience have understood them in suffering in romans siu fung wu argues that paul speaks of the vocation of the jesus followers to participate in christ s suffering with the purpose that they may be glorified with him indeed their identification with christ s suffering is an integral part of god s project of transforming humanity and renewing creation it is in their faithful suffering that christ followers participate in god s triumph over evil this is counter intuitive because most people think that victory is won by power and strength yet the children of god partake in his cosmic victory by their suffering aided by the spirit and the hope of glory this is a survey of the religious attitudes reflected in latin literature from the late republic to the time of constantine its main theme is the development of the roman public religion in that period within this theme the most pervasive issue is the relationship between roman religion and morality though the link between the two is shown to be closer than is often supposed it was also the case that the rise of such systems as stoicism and christianity contributed to a sense of morality more detached from traditional conceptions of the collective well being of the roman state nevertheless the old religion continued to flourish and to contribute in numerous ways to the working of roman society until it was fatally weakened by the political and social crisis of the third century this crisis and the tendency of the roman empire to depend upon and encourage new sources of support prepared the way for the emergence of christianity first as the religion of the emperor and then after a period in which christians and pagans were able to co operate by emphasizing their common beliefs as the official religion of the empire
