what is memory today how can it be approached why does the contemporary world seem to be more and more haunted by different types of memories still asking for elaboration which artistic experiences have explored and defined memory in meaningful ways how do technologies and the media have changed it these are just some of the questions developed in this collection of essays analysing memory and memory shapes which explores the different ways in which past time and its elaboration have been and still are elaborated discussed written or filmed and contested but also shared by gathering together scholars from different fields of investigation this book explores the cultural social and artistic tensions in representing the past and the present in understanding our legacies and in approaching historical time and experience through the analysis of different representations of memory and the investigation of literature anthropology myth and storytelling a space of theories and discourses about the symbolic and cultural spaces of memory representation is developed many twentieth century spanish american writers sought to give voice to their countries native inhabitants drawing upon anthropology and literary theory this book explores the representation of orality by major spanish american anthropologist writers lydia cabrera jose maria arguedas and miguel barnet these writers played a quintessential role of the spanish american writer from colonial times to the present they inscribed the mythical world of a vanishing other by creating a poetic effect of orality in their ethnographies and narratives this book argues that supposed differences between oral and written culture are rhetorical devices in the elaboration of literature specifically modern fiction in spanish america fictionalization of the oral requires adherence to the theory of a great divide between orality and literacy because the texts considered here are predicated on the ideality of speech a contradiction underlies their shared desire to salvage oral tradition this book explores how anthropologist writers have addressed this compelling dilemma in their anthropological and narrative writings at tufts university the concise encyclopedia includes all entries on topics and countries cited by many reviewers as being among the best entries in the book entries on the 50 leading writers in latin america from colonial times to the present and detailed articles on some 50 important works in this literature those who read and studied in the english speaking world a sweeping analysis of archetypal realism in latin american literature and art beyond individualism examines the portrayal of collective identities over two centuries in latin american literature and visual art lois parkinson zamora shows that many authors and artists are less concerned with singular selves than with selves in relation less with individual autonomy than with communal affiliation their works sometimes situated under the labels neobaroque magical realism surrealism expressionism and idealism resist the kind of psychological realism typical of european and north american novels moving instead toward a wholly new kind of fiction zamora calls this new latin american form archetypal realism because its characters represent entities larger than themselves they may embody entire communities cultures families religious orders or ideal planets through deft readings of collective characters in fiction by gabriel garcia marquez isabel allende jorge luis borges and more alongside the art of diego rivera remedios varo and xul solar zamora reveals a modernity based not on enlightenment conceptions of selfhood but on community collectivity and kinship
