the reach of the car today is almost universal and its effect on landscapes cityscapes cultures indeed on the very fabric of the modern world is profound cars have brought benefits to individuals in terms of mobility and expanded horizons but the cost has been very high in terms of damage to the environment and the consumption of precious resources despite the growing belief that a faustian price is now being paid for the freedom cars have bestowed on us we are none the less manufacturing them in ever greater numbers autopia is the first book to explore the culture of the motor car in the widest possible sense featuring newly commissioned essays by writers critics historians artists and film makers as well as reprinting key texts it examines the effect of the car throughout the world including the usa western and eastern europe japan china cuba india and south africa in this book the car is treated neither as a technological fetish object nor as an instrument of danger instead it is examined as a hugely important determinant of 20th century culture neither wholly good nor an unmitigated disaster and certainly endlessly fascinating contributors include michael bracewell ziauddin sardar al rees martin pawley donald richie and peter hamilton key texts by marshall berman jane jacobs roland barthes marc auge and others

this is a multidisciplinary analysis of the relationship between the motor car and popular culture in the 20th century which brings together original essays by academics in the uk north america and australia the contributors write from a wide range of disciplinary perspectives including semiotics social history literary and film criticism and musicology three main themes are addressed the car as a cultural image its impact on leisure and entertainment and the cultural significance of the processes of manufacturing and selling cars

it has long been accepted that the social and cultural meanings of the car far exceed the practical need for mobility this book marks the first attempt to contribute to road safety considering in depth these meanings and the cultures of driving that are shaped by them in the company of cars examines the perspectives that young people have on cars and explores the broader social and cultural meanings of the car the potential it is supposed to fulfil and the anticipated benefits it offers to young drivers from focus group research conducted in australia the book takes up the views of young people on a range of topics from media to car use to gender performance the author looks at the ways in which driving has been defined by articulations of the car that emphasize valued features of the car driver such as gender youthfulness status age power raciness sexiness ruggedness and competitiveness the book takes a global perspective on mobility considering the impact of cars and road safety policy on quality of life and the value and significance of other modes of travel in a range of countries love them or hate them most of us have an opinion about cars if not the cars themselves then it's driver competence and behaviour that can offend us and then there's modification alloy wheels custom audio systems and bespoke paint jobs for some changing the look feel and sound of a car says something about themselves but for others such enhancements signify a lack of taste or even criminality in subtle and complex ways cars transmit and modify our identities behind the wheel as a symbol of independence and freedom the car projects status class taste and significantly embeds racialisation using fascinating research from drivers including first person accounts as well as exploring hip hop music and car related tv shows alam unpicks the ways in which identity is rehearsed enhanced interpreted
