in a small town in the middle of england the aftermath of the second world war brings change for ambitious industrialist charles freeman it offers new opportunities and marriage to mary he buys the big house on the hill and nails his aspirations to the future in quick succession three sons and a daughter bring life to the big house and with it the seeds of family joy and tragedy as the children grow and struggle with the hazards of adulthood charles business expands in direct proportion to his girth and becomes a symbol of the town s fortunes as britain claws its way back from the grey austerity of wartime britain as times change so do the family s fortunes their stories create a generous epic an extraordinarily rich and plangent hymn to the transformation of middle england over the past fifty years at its heart is a diverse and persuasive cast of lovable and odious characters attempting to contend with the restrictions of their generation this definitive anthology gathers stories essays memoirs excerpts from novels and poems by more than 130 jewish writers of the past two centuries who worked in the russian language it features writers of the tsarist soviet and post soviet periods both in russia and in the great emigrations representing styles and artistic movements from romantic to postmodern the authors include figures who are not widely known today as well as writers of world renown most of the works appear here for the first time in english or in new translations the editor of the anthology maxim d shroyer of boston college is a leading authority on jewish russian literature the selections were chosen not simply on the basis of the author s background but because each work illuminates questions of jewish history status and identity each author is profiled in an essay describing the personal cultural and historical circumstances in which the writer worked and individual works or groups of works are headnoted to provide further context the anthology not only showcases a wide selection of individual works but also offers an encyclopedic history of jewish russian culture this handsome two volume set is organized chronologically the first volume spans the nineteenth century and the first part of the twentieth century and includes the editor s extensive introduction to the jewish russian literary canon the second volume covers the period from the death of stalin to the present and each volume includes a corresponding survey of jewish russian history by john d klier of university college london as well as detailed bibliographies of historical and literary sources a snapshot of ecocriticism in action coming into contact collects sixteen previously unpublished essays that explore some of the most promising new directions in the study of literature and the environment they look to previously unexamined or underexamined aspects of literature s relationship to the environment including swamps internment camps asian american environments the urbanized northeast and lynching sites the authors relate environmental discourse to practice including the teaching of green design in composition classes the restoration of damaged landscapes the persuasive strategies of environmental activists the practice of urban architecture and the impact of human technologies on nature the essays also put ecocriticism into greater contact with the natural sciences including elements of evolutionary biology biological taxonomy and geology engaging both ecocritical theory and practice these authors more closely align ecocriticism with the physical environment with the wide range of texts and cultural practices that concern it and with the growing scholarly conversation that surrounds this concern this fascinating account of the regional travel accident motif within american local color literature offers a reassessment of the cultural work done by authors writing during the gilded age stephanie c palmer shows how events like broken carriage wheels and missed trains were used by local color authors to bring together bourgeois and lower class characters thus giving readers the opportunity to see modernity coming into contact with both rural and urban life using the works of sarah orne jewett bret harte william dean howells elizabeth stuart phelps and others palmer traces the use of the regional travel accident motif and how local color writers employed it to give critiques on class society and modern life exploring the themes of regional identity modernity and interpersonal relationships together by accident offers an intriguing evaluation of the innovations and inconveniences associated with life during the industrializing gilded age in america
