access to genetic resources and benefit sharing abs has been promoted under the convention on biological diversity with the aim of combining biodiversity conservation goals with economic development however as this book shows since its inception in 1992 implementation has encountered multiple challenges and obstacles this is particularly so in the marine environment where interest in genetic resources for pharmaceuticals and nutrients has increased this is partly because of the lack of clarity of terminology but also because of the terms of the comprehensive law of the sea unclos and transboundary issues of delineating ownership of marine resources the author explains and compares relevant provisions and concepts under abs and the law of the sea taking access benefit sharing monitoring compliance and dispute settlement into consideration he also provides an overview of the implementation status of abs relevant measures in user states and identifies successful abs transactions a key unique feature of the book is to illustrate how biological databases can serve as the central scientific infrastructure to implement the global multilateral benefit sharing mechanism proposed by the nagoya protocol the research for this book was supported by both the bremen international graduate school for marine sciences glomar and the international research training group intercoast integrated coastal zone and shelf sea research three dimensional 3d immersive virtual worlds have been touted as being capable of facilitating highly interactive engaging multimodal learning experiences much of the evidence gathered to support these claims has been anecdotal but the potential that these environments hold to solve traditional problems in online and technology mediated education primarily learner isolation and student disengagement has resulted in considerable investments in virtual world platforms like second life opensimulator and open wonderland by both professors and institutions to justify this ongoing and sustained investment institutions and proponents of simulated learning environments must assemble a robust body of evidence that illustrates the most effective use of this powerful learning tool in this authoritative collection a team of international experts outline the emerging trends and developments in the use of 3d virtual worlds for teaching and learning they explore aspects of learner interaction with virtual worlds such as user wayfinding in second life communication modes and perceived presence and accessibility issues for elderly or disabled learners they also examine advanced technologies that hold potential for the enhancement of learner immersion and discuss best practices in the design and implementation of virtual world based learning interventions and tasks by evaluating and documenting different methods approaches and strategies the contributors to learning in virtual worlds offer important information and insight to both scholars and practitioners in the field
