colección de veintiseis artículos escritos por investigadoras feministas de Inglaterra, Francia, Alemania, Italia y los Estados Unidos centrados en la investigación de la sexualidad y la construcción de la identidad femenina. consta de cuatro secciones: contexto, mujeres y cultura, mujeres y política y teoría política. se analizan varios aspectos de las condiciones sociales de la mujer, sus visiones políticas y sus creaciones artísticas durante los siglos XIX y XX en Europa y Estados Unidos.

psychology's study of women has revealed some themes that span cultures and countries yet women's lived experiences in different cultures can be dramatically different this element explores from a psychological perspective women's issues in cultural contexts beginning with the question of public and private identity i.e. who counts as a woman it goes on to examine embodiment sexuality reproduction family roles economic participation and power violence leadership and feminist activism it concludes with a brief discussion of women's complicated relationship to culture as both keepers and sometimes prisoners of cultural traditions particularly in the context of migration to different cultures running through the element are two general themes the pervasiveness of a gender hierarchy that often privileges men over women and the ways in which women's lived experience varies within cultures according to the intersection of gender with other categories that affect expectations norms power and privilege female anthropologists scan patterns and changes in women's roles in various social systems until recently women have been noticeably absent from historical and sociological accounts of modernity as a step toward remedying this situation the essays gathered here challenge the continuing separation of sociological from textual analysis in cultural and feminist theory and inquiry they address critically the question of women's writing exploring the idea that women may begin to define their own lives and construct their own identities in a patriarchal culture through the very process of writing they also present a cogent defense of a feminist cultural politics including a politics of the body integrating material drawn from a variety of sources feminist theory cultural and literary analysis sociology and art history feminine sentences is an original discussion of women's relationship to modern and postmodern culture janet wolff's book represents a major statement of her distinctive position and will be of interest to everyone working in the areas of cultural and literary theory women's studies and sociology from the book women are sentenced to containment and silence this collection is intended as a contribution to the overthrow of that sentence and to the process whereby women find ways to intervene in an excluding culture and to articulate their own experience feminine sentences are those formulations and expressions in a variety of cultural forms and media of women's own voice the literature of modernity describes the experience of men it is essentially a literature about transformations in the public world and its associated consciousness in so far as the experience of the modern occurred mainly in the public sphere it was primarily men's experience i want to argue that a feminist cultural politics of the body is a possibility there is every reason to propose the body as a privileged site of political intervention precisely because it is the site of repression and possession
