spanning various regions of sub saharan africa the authors of this volume come together to explore the complex relationship between religion and democracy in contemporary africa as a result of the end of the cold war and the fall of the soviet union many african countries have come to the realization however partial that political and social change is inevitable in spite of government heavy handedness and threats it has also become evident that no political system that refuses to permit freedom of political expression and alternative systems of governance could continue to be sustained it is in precisely this political climate that religious institutions have collaborated with other elements of civil society to call for political reforms with the church often becoming the prominent voice against oppressive governments in countries such as kenya and south africa it is the purpose of this book to assess how religion shapes political issues and to what extent religious forces influence the civil society by acknowledging the role of the civil society the essays recognize the resilience that comes out of africa even when the sociopolitical situation seems unbearable

this book introduces readers to neo mercantile planning theory in the context of spatial regional integration in africa it proposes a new approach that rethinks neo liberalism as the meta theory of planning in africa and pioneers an original school of thought that presents a general theory of planning for africa in the twenty first century research to substantiate the new theory was conducted over the period november 2010 to may 2015 and is presented here in four sections with more than 500 references the book offers comprehensive coverage from the theoretical foundations and framework through application and empirical research to analysis conclusions and recommendations negative images of africa which define the continent as being riven with poverty crime or war are increasingly being challenged examples of soft power such as nigeria s nollywood athletic successes in kenya rwanda s commercial diplomacy and south africa s liberal constitution are all reasserting african agency and shaping more positive understandings of the continent this book considers the role and impact of soft power in the african context and how it relates to the 21st century scramble for africa bringing together leading scholars in the field this book delves into various aspects of soft power in africa shedding light on how the continent's attractiveness is shaped by soft power in the continent's biggest states the small states and also the regional organisations such as the african union au economic community of west african states ecowas southern african development community sadc and east african community eac the book then goes on to assess the ways in which great powers most notably china the united states the united kingdom brazil and france are themselves deploying soft power in africa in order to vie for influence resources and strategic advantages understanding soft power in africa will be an important read for researchers in political science international relations african studies and cultural studies as well as for african policymakers developing africa new horizons with afrocentricity aims to contest the eurocentric narrative of an african development discourse this book deploys the theory of afrocentricity as an intellectual standpoint from which african thinkers should interrogate and reconceptualize the discourse of development in africa particularly the book argues in favour of the afrocentric re interpretation of african history african culture and assertion of african agency as the core building wedge in the reconceptualization of the ideal african development trajectory the africa of today is different from that of yesterday the africa of today is witnessing a renaissance one that is not merely going to change leaders and whitewash old structures it is a renaissance that is seeing real changes taking place meaningful political reforms the building of democratic institutions economic reforms freedom of the press etc such changes are spearheaded by new leadership in africa this new leadership has rekindled the spirits of africans awakening them to the new day at hand an african dawn this book is about such a renaissance it thus differs from other books that only paint a gloomy picture of africa it offers a balanced view tracing where africa came from the colonial post colonial to the present post post colonial periods each period is critically analyzed and the legacies outlined based upon such analyses it talks about the impending african renaissance as a result of the reforms developed and implemented by post post colonial african leadership by outlining some of the challenges the new leadership in africa would face as they create their renaissance and offering solutions to some of these challenges this book holds no illusions that the creation of the african renaissance would be easy the task of creating the african renaissance should not be shouldered by the new leadership of africa and africans alone the global community must play their part by creating a global constituency for africa through such a constituency the global community can contribute in many ways to help africa realize its renaissance the road ahead for africa lies in unity by uniting politically economically and socially a sustainable african renaissance is assured to attempt to go it alone on the part of individual african nations in this era of globalization is suicidal with the help of discourse analysis and ideology critique ellen wesemüller establishes a theoretical framework to analyze african nationalism in apartheid and post apartheid south africa following the constructivist school of thought the study adopts the assumption that nations are imagined communities which are built on invented traditions it shows that historically and analytically there are two distinct concepts of nationalism constitutional and ethnic nationalism these concepts can be retraced in south africa where they form the central antagonism of black political thought the study of post apartheid african nationalism is placed in its historical perspective by focusing on the major milestones of african national congress discourse before and during apartheid it demonstrates that throughout its history the anc was characterized by the rivalry between concepts of constitutional and ethnic nationalism while the former concept found its counterpart in charterism the latter was adopted by african nationalism though the anc in its majority embraced charterism it continually played with the appeal of an exclusive racial nationalism the theoretical and historical contextualization of the book allows for the investigation of the various dimensions of current anc discourse on african nationalism wesemüller analyses different concepts of nationalism employed by the anc and compares these models to those discussed in academic literature she concludes that in post apartheid south africa the historical dichotomy of africanist and charterist nationalism persists within the anc while early concepts of nationalism like mandela s rainbow nation and mbeki s i am an african paid tribute to charterism the discourses on the african renaissance and mbeki s two nation address at least leave openings for africanist interpretations furthermore the analysis shows that nationalism is not only a product of discourse but also one of material conditions the study provides evidence that it is not only the anc that hijacks african nationalism in order to mobilize their electorate and push through unpopular policy choices also there are compelling material reasons for some south africans to adopt a nationalist agenda this is demonstrated by the new black bourgeoisie that mediates the gap between rich and poor as well as black and white african nationalism in this regard serves to legitimate domination and existing relations of inequality it affirms an african elite while neither uplifting the majority of african poor nor threatening the material privileges of white south africans lastly ellen wesemüller gives an outlook on the political implications of a resurrected nationalism the effects can be analyzed according to the two promises of nationalism superiority over outsiders and equality between insiders superiority in post apartheid south africa is established over other african countries immigrants and inner south african groups that are considered foreign
