this book represents the first cross country study of the work of board chairs in europe it focuses on what board leaders actually do rather than what they should do and elaborates on a conceptual contingency framework for understanding chairs work in europe in this second edition 18 experts from 14 european countries interviewed more than 300 chairs ceos directors and shareholders to detect and compare specific practices and instruments that chairs use to deal with various challenges researchers also assessed the impact of the covid 19 pandemic on the work of chairs and the boards they lead the book benefits incumbent and future chairs directors shareholders ceos executives and regulators in developing a systemic understanding of the work of a chair in the european business context and gaining insights into how the leader of the board deals with specific challenges a comprehensive guide on creating growing and leveraging a board of directors written for ceos board members and people seeking board roles the first time many founders see the inside of a board room is when they step in to lead their board but how do boards work how should they be structured managed and leveraged so that startups can grow avoid pitfalls and get the best out of their boards authors brad feld mahendra ramsinghani and matt blumberg have collectively served on hundreds of startup and scaleup boards over the past 30 years attended thousands of board meetings encountered multiple personalities and situations and seen the good bad and ugly of boards in startup boards a field guide to building and leading an effective board of directors the authors provide seasoned advice and guidance to ceos board members investors and anyone aspiring to serve on a board this comprehensive book covers a wide range of topics with relevant tips tactics and best practices including board fundamentals such as the board's purpose, legal characteristics and roles and functions of board members, creating a board including size, composition, roles of VCs and independent directors, what to look for in a director and how to recruit directors, compensating, onboarding, removing directors and suggestions on building a diverse board, preparing for and running board meetings, the board's role in transactions including selling a company, buying a company, going public and going out of business, advice for independent and aspiring directors, startup boards, draws on the author's experience and includes stories from board members, startup founders, executives and investors, any CEO, board member, investor or executive interested in creating an active, involved and engaged board should read this book and keep it handy for reference.

The board member's playbook, written for board members who are either familiar with or new to John Carver's revolutionary policy governance model, offers real-world scenarios that address the challenges that confront boards of all types of organizations. Step by step, the authors walk readers through a proven problem-solving sequence that allows them to find solutions consistent with the values and policies of their organizations, designed to be flexible. The book's problem-solving methods are applicable to any challenge boards may face.

This book is about corporate governance in action, more specifically about boards of directors in action during board meetings. It is unique because it uses recordings complemented by written notes taken during the board meetings. This organisational peer task group is often unnecessarily seen as a mighty secret group; in fact, it is simply another organisational group that has received its organisational delegation of authority from the owners of the organisation. It does most of its institutional business during board meetings. The author recovers and describes for the first time ever, in a combined practical and scholarly way, what a specific board of directors is doing, how, during one such full board meeting. Intended audience: this book is addressed to a large and varied audience, basically anyone who is interested for whatever reason in knowing how an organisation is directed. The book does not require the reader to have any specific knowledge or experience. What the reader needs to know in order to understand the phenomenon of directing, for example, the structure of board meetings or the elements of corporate governance, becomes explained as part of the text. As far as needed, the text has been written in a scholarly way which requires the reader to appropriately concentrate. The intended audience includes the broader public, politicians and regulators, in addition to those aspiring to become a board member, as well as those board practitioners who want to become more effective, as a board, students who study corporate governance and who want their course to be more practical will also benefit from the book finally the book will be useful to those rare academics who study the practical knowledge that board members apply daily in the late 1930s a number of american women especially those allied with various peace and isolationist groups protested against the nation's entry into world war ii while their story is fairly well known margaret paton walsh reveals a far less familiar story of women who fervently felt that american intervention was absolutely necessary paton walsh recounts how the united states became involved in the war but does so through the eyes of american women who faced it as a necessary evil covering the period between 1935 and 1941 she examines how these women functioned as political actors even though they were excluded from positions of power through activism in women's organizations informal women's networks and even male dominated lobbying groups in the great debate over whether america should enter the war some women favored aid to the allies not because they hoped for war but because they hoped aid would forestall more direct u.s. involvement but also because they believed war was preferable to a nazi victory paton walsh shows that this activism involved some of the most prominent women of their day elizabeth cutter morrow whose son in law charles lindbergh was an isolationist spokesman supported the revision of the neutrality acts to allow the sale of arms to the allies and expressed her support in a national radio broadcast soon other women joined this debate esther brunauer of the aaup journalist dorothy thompson and organizations like the league of women voters and national women's trade union league broke from the pacifist tradition to advocate american aid for the allied cause focusing on the conflict in europe paton walsh shows how these women grasped the implications of the lend lease program for america's entry into the war but supported it nevertheless by late 1941 the women's division of the fight for freedom committee had been established no longer merely advocating aid to britain to keep american boys out of battle this organization supported direct american involvement in the war as a means of stopping nazi oppression while most historians have focused on women's pacifism paton walsh connects women more directly to world events and shows how those interventionists reformulated maternalist ideas to justify and explain their beliefs our war too is a story of american women trying to reconcile the irreconcilable to preserve both their principles and their peace it expands our understanding of women as political actors and thinkers about foreign policy as it sheds new light on american public opinion over the build up to the war boards of directors are coming under increasing scrutiny in terms of their contribution in monitoring and controlling management particularly in the wake of high profile corporate frauds and failures and also their potential to add value to organizational performance through involvement in the strategy process and through building relationships with key investors despite the importance of these issues not only to organizations but also arguably to national competitiveness the nature of board activity remains largely a black box clouded by prescriptions prejudices and half truths this book responds to calls for greater scrutiny of boards of directors with an in depth examination of directors of uk organizations drawing on the accounts of directors themselves as to their roles influence and the potential and limits to their power much work on boards of directors has labelled the board as a rubber stamp for dominant management and non executive directors in particular have been variously described as poodles pet rocks or parsley on the fish such accounts are rooted in assumptions of board activity that are essentially adversarial in nature and that the solution to the problem of reconciling the interests of managers with those of shareholders is to increase the checks and balances available to the board of directors the findings of this study show that boards in many cases are far more than passive rubber stamps for management and that non executives are encouraged to act as trusted advisers to the executives and the chief executive rather than solely monitors of executive activity boards are important mechanisms in maintaining the strategic framework of the organization through setting the boundaries of organizational activity the potential of the board members in particular the non executives to fulfil such a mandate depends on a number of factors including ability willingness to engage with the organizational issues and the degree of knowledge they have relevant to the host firm above all the degree of trust built between members of the board and between the board and key external constituencies is at the heart of effective board behaviour
