today's corporate deal makers face a conundrum though 70% of major acquisitions fail it's nearly impossible to build a world class company without doing deals in mastering the merger David Harding and Sam Rovit argue that a laserlike focus on just four key imperatives before executives finalize the deal can dramatically improve the odds of making a success based on more than 30 years of work in the trenches, work on thousands of deals across a range of industries and supplemented by extensive Bain & Company research. Harding and Rovit reveal that the best companies channel their efforts into 1) targeting deals that advance the core business, 2) determining which deals to close and when to walk away, 3) identifying where to integrate and where not to, and 4) developing contingency plans for when deals inevitably stray. Top deal makers also favor a succession of smaller deals over complex megamergers and essentially institutionalize a success formula over time, helping executives zero in on what matters most in the complex world of making a deal. Mastering the Merger offers a blueprint for the decisions and strategies that will beat the odds.
