this is an open access book wael b hallaq a renowned sharia scholar has called sharia an episteme that suffered a structural death following the dawn of modernity in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries hallaq 2009 15 16 yet its resurgent is remarkable across a number of jurisdictional fault lines from muslim majority nations in middle east and southeast asia to muslim minority societies in western europe and north america across these jurisdictions the relationship between sharia and state law is central it includes sharia state encounters notably in the form of state islamic law in the field of family law which is often asserted as the core or last stronghold of sharia moors 2003 2 coulson 1969 115 6 and other substantive areas of law such as islamic economics and islamic philanthropy and also jinayah islamic penal law regardless of their differences in their own specific context these areas somehow manage to secure an importance place in the modern days it involves different loci of authority to interpret legislate and enforce sharia or parts of it that not only flourish but also being challenged around the muslim world equally important are implications of the increasingly unsettled authority of apparently agreed upon substance of sharia to contribute on these issues we would like to invite scholars from diverse discipline including law anthropology and islamic studies working in both muslim majority and muslim minority contexts to present their works in our international seminar on sharia law and muslim society islam when a person dies his ownership of his property ends and is to be given to his heirs it is allah s ta ala favour upon us that he has not made the disposal of that wealth as charity necessary but rather he in his wisdom knows that the death of any person is a great loss to their relatives and an even greater loss to their dependents who relied upon them for provision that said allah ta ala also knew that man has greed and it is this greed that causes brother to hate brother and sister and to usurp the rights of the less persuasive for this reason allah has fixed very clearly in the qur an the allotted shares of the relatives of the deceased this has been further mapped out in the ahadith by the prophet of allah ta ala so as to leave no scope of doubt or leeway for argument in who gets what everyone will get their share no more no less this prevents the greedy from getting more than their share and it stops the undefended from receiving less than their allotment in islam the concept of the wealth only going to the first born son is seen as oppressive islam has also distinguished the different levels of dependency of the closer relatives and has stipulated amounts varying in quantity in different circumstances the factors that lessen one relative s share is the presence of another relative who also has a considerable relationship with the deceased there are times when an allotment may seem unfair these will also be explained for example of two inheriting brothers one may be financially well off whereas the other is poor this will not mean that the poorer brother will get everything or more than the richer brother this is because inheritance is not charity and is given on account of the strength of the relationship not on account of who is more needy both brothers in this aspect are equal and will thus receive an equal share this book only deals with the financial side of the events around death for an in depth look at the rites of passage of the burial please refer to our publication what to do when a muslim dies
