the extraordinary and much requested first volume of cendrars autobiography this account chronicles the author's exploits in the foreign legion including the loss of his arm before the narrative sets off across continents from africa to south america cendrars encounters everyone from gallic gipsies to piquita the mexican millionairess and to all his encounters he brings the vitality savage humor and vivid observation that characterize his dazzling writing a new account of the life and work of innovative pseudonymous french poet novelist essayist and film writer blaise cendrars in 1912 the young frédéric louis sauser arrived in france carrying an experimental poem and a new identity blaise cendrars was born over the next half century cendrars wrote innovative poems novels essays film scripts and autobiographical prose his groundbreaking books and collaborations with artists such as sonia delaunay and fernand léger remain astonishingly modern today cendrars's writings reflect his insatiable curiosity his vast knowledge which was largely self taught and his love of everyday life in this new account eric robertson examines cendrars's work against a turbulent historical background and reassesses his contribution to twentieth century literature robertson shows how cendrars is as relevant today as ever and deserves a wider readership in the english speaking world in france blaise cendrars 1887 1961 a friend of chagall leger picasso braque picabia and modigliani has emerged as one of the great figures of modernism together with apollinaire he brought cubism to french poetry anais nin hailed him as one of france's best writers and the village voice called him the indiana jones of french literature translated into english for the first time sky the last of cendrars's four autobiographical volumes weaves together a dazzling collage of prose poetry travel writing reportage detective story and personal memoir his life itself reads like the arabian nights entertainment writes henry miller in sky cendrars recounts his adventures in russia during the revolution of 1905 in the trenches of world war i where he lost his right arm in brazil in the 1920s and behind the lines during world war ii the two wars run throughout as a unifying thread as the title announces this is a memoir of the sky of cendrars's love of birds levitation and aviation the opening of the book finds cendrars the great adventurer and traveler sailing back from brazil to paris with 250 multi colored birds hoping to bring at least one of them alive to a child he loves the second part moves back and forth between the author's recollections of life as a war correspondent in 1940 and an encyclopedic discourse on levitation he wrote in search of a patron saint of aviation perhaps as compensation for the death of his young son remy who was a pilot during the war with unmatched exuberance cendrars writes on poetry myths existentialism his life in paris between the wars with the painter delaunay and the dadaists and his exotic adventures in brazil his anecdotes of russia where he was a jeweler's assistant are compelling and funny his fiercely imaginative stories such as one about a brazilian coffee plantation owner who obsessed with his love for sarah bernhardt retreats into the wilderness are magical des the accidental anthropologist is a fascinating impeccably written memoir or more accurately a series of fragments compelling and absorbing as well as intense and insightful jackson writes a far from classically auto biographical text there is nothing predictable about the mode or incidents he has chosen to write about this is literary memoir at its best and most inventive jackson has a fascination with the concept of personal metamorphosis the idea that a life can be dismantled and reassembled in a different country and set of relationships and throughout the story the author makes a pretty good fist of living the theory the intimacy of the first chapter intensive care engages the reader immediately jackson's experiences begin with his earnest portrayal of young adulthood in wellington where he associates on the fringes with many of the literary figures of the early 60s bob lowry fleur adcock james k baxter r a k mason and the artist mccahon jackson finds himself homeless in london where he s drawn to help the poor and eventually finds his way to cambridge where he stumbles upon anthropology his subsequent ethnographic fieldwork takes him to the congo sierra leone and outback australia jackson makes it clear that our lives are barely our own they belong as much to the people the landscapes the influences of thought and ideology that absorb us he excells at the intensely personal and captivates with this masterful work the accidental anthropologist is a challenging and magnificent memoir much of it is spellbinding astute and disquieting
