breakfast eaten and the slim camp outfit lashed to the sled the men turned their backs on the cheery fire and launched out into the darkness at once began to rise the cries that were fiercely sad cries that called through the darkness and cold to one another and answered back conversation ceased daylight came at nine o clock at midday the sky to the south warmed to rose colour and marked where the bulge of the earth intervened between the meridian sun and the northern world but the rose colour swiftly faded the grey light of day that remained lasted until three o clock when it too faded and the pall of the arctic night descended upon the lone and silent land as darkness came on the hunting cries to right and left and rear drew closer so close that more than once they sent surges of fear through the toiling dogs throwing them into short lived panics at the conclusion of one such panic when he and henry had got the dogs back in the traces bill said i wisht they d strike game somewhere an go away an leave us alone they do get on the nerves horrible henry sympathised they spoke no more until camp was made henry was bending over and adding ice to the babbling pot of beans when he was startled by the sound of a blow an exclamation from bill and a sharp snarling cry of pain from among the dogs he straightened up in time to see a dim form disappearing across the snow into the shelter of the dark then he saw bill standing amid the dogs half triumphant half crestfallen in one hand a stout club in the other the tail and part of the body of a sun cured salmon it got half of it he announced but i got a whack at it jes the same d ye hear it squeal what d it look like henry asked couldn t see but it had four legs an a mouth an hair an looked like any dog must be a tame wolf i reckon it s damned tame whatever it is comin in here at feedin time an gettin its whack of fish that night when supper was finished and they sat on the oblong box and pulled at their pipes the circle of gleaming eyes drew in even closer than before
