from experiments in language and identity to innovations in the novel the short story and life narratives the contributors discuss the way in which bowen s work straddles informs and defies the existing definitions of modernist and postmodernist literature which dominate twentieth century writing

spectrality in modernist fiction argues that key modernist writers chiefly Conrad, Forster, Butts, and Bowen use spectral rhetoric to tackle problems of sex and sexuality, revolution, imperialism, capitalism, and desire. All through complicated ethical engagements, these engagements invariably come packaged in and are shaped by the language of spectrality in its capacity to articulate a particular sort of relationship between the past, the present, and the future. The spectral concerns the basic question of how to proceed, how to live with, maybe even address ethical indeterminacy. Whether their spectral rhetoric traces the logics of capitalist possession, Conrad's queer friendship and paganized Christianity, Forster's regressive politics haunted by historical traumas, Butts' or the devious passages of perverse desire, Bowen these writers locate something like hope in their ghosts. The ethical and political impasses they chart through their spectral rhetoric are not final but temporary, and the drive to overcome them constitutes a tensile optimism.

A comprehensive practical book for students and practitioners of remedial massage. The textbook of remedial massage comprises three sections. The first section reframes assessment of remedial massage clients to align with current research. The second section provides clear and comprehensive instruction in commonly used and highly valued remedial massage techniques, e.g., trigger points, craniocervical stretching, myofascial release, etc., and is accompanied by illustrations and photographs. The exposition of each practical technique is accompanied by a rationale based on physiological principles and current supporting evidence for its efficacy. Crucially, contraindications and precautions are explained for each technique. The final section of the book applies remedial massage techniques to regions of the body: lumbar, cervical, thoracic, head/face, chest, and pelvis, acknowledging that remedial massage therapists are often primary contact practitioners. The book gives readers essential information for assessing the suitability of clients for remedial massage and the essential knowledge for adapting techniques to individual clients. Detailed assessment technique, evidence-based approach, anatomy described in functional terms. Bonus feature with print purchase only: the print textbook includes an accompanying DVD with videos of content covered in book. The DVD content is divided up into assessment and treatment techniques.
