making the stage is a collection of essays that examines the role of theatre drama and performance in contemporary culture a culture that is growing increasingly technological and isolated seemingly at odds with the very nature of theatre a collaborative and sometimes very primitive art form through the course of these essays it is clear that theatre not only survives some of the challenges of the day but even defines discussions particularly political ones which are prohibited by an increasingly manipulated media the essays from a diverse group of theatre scholars examine the mechanics of theatre from space to sound to the use of technology the role of women in creating theatre the relationship between theatre and literary art forms the politics of theatre science and theatre and the role of performance art through them all it is clear that theatre drama and performance continue to speak in significant ways churchill s rebels is a heart breaking story of two people madly in love and in open rebellion against their upbringing and a way of life esmond romilly was the nephew of winston churchill a rebel against his family and a public school who left england to fight for the rebels in the spanish civil war jessica mitford was one of the notorious mitford girls always known as decca and grew up in a life of downton abbey aristocratic privilege in 1937 when esmond was 18 and jessica 19 they met and fell madly in love and scandalously ran away together to the communist front in spain after three months of family opposition they were finally married with war ever approaching esmond trained to fly and was killed in active service with bomber command they had only had four brief tempestuous and loving years together the volume is divided into two parts separated by an intermezzo the first part dystopia matters benefits from the contribution of reputed scholars of the field of utopian studies who were asked to make a statement explaining why dystopia is important the intermezzo completes this part and offers the reader an informed discussion of the concepts of utopia dystopia and anti utopia whilst providing ground for the case studies presented in the second part in the sections devoted to literature film and theatre in one way or another despite the variety of approaches all contributors argue for the idea that if dystopia has invaded most forms of contemporary discourse its sibling utopia has not been eradicated from the scene furthermore the studies show that the tension between the two concepts is instrumental to our cautious conscious and tentative construction of the future
