for over 2000 years our culture has believed in the possibility of a single true account of the world now this age is coming to a close as a result there is a deep unease we are lost both as individuals and as a culture in the new relativistic post modern era we have no history no right or moral action and no body of knowledge in their place is a plethora of alternative and sometimes incompatible theories from fuzzy logic to consilience proposing a theory of everything closure is a response to this crisis it is a radically new story about the nature of ourselves and of the world closure exposes the central questions of contemporary philosophy language and meaning of the individual and identity of truth and reality but it is also philosophical in the broader everyday sense that it enables us to make sense of where and who we are a central principle the process of closure is shown to be at the heart of experience and language as a theory of knowledge it has dramatic consequences for our understanding of the sciences involving a reinterpretation of what science does and how it is able to do it it similarly proposes a profound shift in the role of art and religion but above all it reshapes our understanding of ourselves and the organisation of society our goals and our capacity to achieve them a superb new account of how order is created out of disorder closure is an exhilarating work of conceptual geography
