english medium universities around the world face real challenges in ensuring that incoming students have the language and literacy skills they need to cope with the demands of their degree programmes one response has been a variety of institutional initiatives to assess students after admission in order to identify those with significant needs and advise them on how to enhance their academic language ability this volume brings together papers from australia canada hong kong new zealand oman south africa and the united states written by language assessment specialists who discuss issues in the design and implementation of these post admission assessments in their own institutions a major theme running through the book is the need to evaluate the validity of such assessments not just on their technical quality but on their impact in terms of giving students access to effective means of developing their language skills and ultimately enhancing their academic achievement this book contains descriptor scales which describe the linguistic skills needed by language learners to become competent speakers of another language this book presents an overview of revisiting the assessment of language abilities it also showcases how the measurement of such constructs can result in negative or positive washback and how outcomes might be conducive to repercussions that decide on the future of many stakeholders the 23 chapters were selected among tens of chapters received from different contexts that addressed the issue of revisiting the assessment of language abilities such as tunisia ukraine algeria russia ksa sudan egypt canada kurdisten uk usa iran turkey etc these contexts have highlighted the necessity to revisit the different constructs which should be assessed with a clear and straightforward foundation on students learning objectives and their actual language ability to do so most of the chapters present hands on use of relevant statistical tests that might serve in revisiting the construct definition both theoretically and operationally perhaps the sole and intricate question that the authors of these contributions ask is what it means to revisit the assessment of the construct of individualized language ability and how in addition the book accentuates the momentousness and significance of reflecting on test fairness and validation as the mainspring and backbone for democratization of assessment this book appeals to a broad readership such as english language teaching elt practitioners language teachers students testing organizations policy makers test designers writers of test specifications testing experts researchers program evaluators especially in the middle east and north africa mena as well as other international contexts the diagnosis of reading in a second or foreign language explores the implications of language assessment research on classroom based assessment practices by providing an in depth look at the little examined field of diagnosis in second and foreign language reading this volume examines the development of second and foreign language reading and how subsequent research findings couched in this knowledge can help facilitate a more informed teaching approach in second and foreign language classrooms by contextualizing the latest in classroom settings and presenting implications for future research in this developing area of linguistics this book is an ideal resource for those studying and working in applied linguistics second language acquisition and language assessment and education about the npla series headed by two of its leading scholars the series captures the burgeoning field of language assessment by offering comprehensive and state of the art coverage of its contemporary questions pressing issues and technical advances it is the only active series of its kind on the market and will include volumes on basic and advanced topics in language assessment public policy and language assessment and the interfaces of language assessment with other disciplines in applied linguistics each text presents key theoretical approaches and research findings along with concrete practical implications and suggestions for readers conducting their own research or developmental studies in an increasingly interconnected world where distances dwindle and cultures interweave the role of communication gains renewed significance language our primary form of expression and comprehension acts both as a border and a bridge for ideas knowledge and experiences amidst this complex linguistic interplay this volume finds its purpose chapters herein delve into communication surpassing geographic and linguistic boundaries as language professionals educators and researchers we navigate the challenges of this landscape where languages blend and merge these chapters analyse and inspire queries that arise whenever linguistic borders are crossed from exploring the functions of intercomprehension to examining the impact of digital tools on borderless language education each chapter reveals a facet of the theme topics span language methodologies language acquisition linguistic landscapes and the growing importance of technology in teaching to name but a few readers are invited to join us in exploring how communication shapes and is shaped by diverse linguistic environments together we illuminate the threads that determine global interaction delivering insight into the functioning of language in our interconnected world
