this book represents a significant contribution to the highly contested debate surrounding how allegations of child sexual abuse should be evaluated despite decades of substantial research in this sensitive area professional consensus remains elusive a particular source of contention is the sensitivity vs specificity debate whether evaluators should aim to reduce the number of true allegations that are labelled false or to reduce the number of false allegations that are labelled true this edited collection aims to address directly and offer new insights into this debate it responds directly to kuehnle and connell s edited volume the evaluation of child sexual abuse allegations a comprehensive guide to assessment and testimony 2009 which included chapters which advocated strong specificity positions at the expense of sensitivity the chapters in this collection feature both challenges to and replies by the authors in Kuehnle and Connell's book making this an essential resource that moves the debate forward this book was originally published as a special issue of the journal of child sexual abuse techniques in the investigative interviewing and interrogation of victims witnesses and suspects of crime vary around the world according to a country's individual legal system religion and culture whereas some countries have developed certain interview protocols for witnesses such as the ABE guidelines and the NICHD protocol when interviewing children and the peace model of interviewing suspects other countries continue to use physical coercion and other questionable tactics to elicit information until now there has been very little empirical information about the overall interview and interrogation practices in non western countries especially the middle and far east this book addresses this gap bringing together international experts from over 25 countries and providing in depth coverage of the various interview and interrogation techniques used across the globe volume 1 focuses on the interviewing of victims and witnesses aiming to provide the necessary information for an understanding of how law enforcement agencies around the world gain valuable information from victims and witnesses in criminal cases together the chapters that make up this volume and the accompanying volume on interviewing suspects draw on specific national case studies and practices examine contemporary challenges and identify best practice to enable readers to develop an international as well as a comparative perspective of developments worldwide in this important area of criminal investigation this book will be an essential resource for academics and students engaged in the study of policing criminal investigation forensic psychology and criminal law it will also be of great interest to practitioners legal professionals and policymakers around the world
