illustrated by interviews with women and men in the tourist resorts in the Sinai Egypt this book opens up the debate surrounding sex tourism by examining the way in which holiday romances between western women and native men are linked to a much wider romanticism of place and people which is used to sell these destinations the work provides insights into gender issues to do with globalization travel and sexuality the coming of materials science both covers the discipline of materials science and draws an impressionistic map of the present state of the subject the first chapter examines the emergence of the materials science concept in both academe and industry the second and third chapters delve back into the prehistory of materials science examining the growth of such concepts as atoms crystals and thermodynamics and also examine the evolution of a number of neighbouring disciplines to see what helpful parallels might emerge the book contains numerous literature references many refer to the earliest key papers and books while others are to sources often books offering a view of the present state of a topic early references are to the past but as the book continues it brings the reader up to date with more recent sources the author professor Robert Cahn FRS has striven to be critical about the history of the discipline of materials science and to draw general conclusions about scientific practice from what he has discovered about the evolution of materials science further issues that the book highlights include what is a scientific discipline how do disciplines merge and differentiate can a discipline also be interdisciplinary is materials science a real discipline a large range of themes is presented in the book and readers are invited to interact with the author if they reach alternative conclusions this book is not just for reading and reference but exists to stimulate thought and provoke discussion as well
