in 1941 the european war became a world war this book tackles that process in its economic political and ideological dimensions margaret lamb and nicholas tarling explore the significance of the asian factor and the importance of east asia in the making of the war in europe and the transformation of the european war of 1939 into the world war of 1941 this asian factor has often been neglected but the policies of all the major powers were affected by their world wide interests france had its possessions in north africa and asia nazi germany chose to become involved in china and to make an agreement with japan britain s action in europe and the mediterranean were conditioned by its commitments elsewhere in the world and the united states and the soviet union were both involved in europe and asia in particular the threat that japan presented to the status quo in east asia made it difficult for the war in europe in turn affected the position in east asia the us built a two ocean navy and encouraged the british to continue their struggle by keeping the resources of south east asia available and these steps led to a clash with the japanese lamb and tarling s global approach throws valuable new light on the origins of the second world war excerpt from the war in europe and its lessons for us an address while i have found receptive audiences all over the country there is no community in which i would expect a more sympathetic hearing than in this because the distinguished gentle man who represents you in congress views the subject from the same standpoint that i do whenever a new question arises upon which the people have not expressed themselves it is important that each individual should make known his views in order that public opinion may represent the voters generally and not a portion of the people only the country would be fortunate if all of our public men were as candid and as courageous in taking a position as congressman bailey who honors you as he is honored by you in order that you may follow me the more easily i shall outline in advance the address which i am to deliver to you it naturally divides itself into three parts first the war as it is and its injury to neutrals second the false philosophy out of which the war has grown and the natural results of that false philosophy and third the way out or the road to permanent peace the subject is presented with a view to emphasizing the lessons which this country can draw from the conflict beyond the ocean about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks.com this book is a reproduction of an important historical work forgotten books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy in rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition we do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are formed in 1947 the united nations economic commission for europe unece was the first postwar international organization dedicated to economic cooperation in europe linking the universalism of the un to european regionalism both cold war superpowers the usa and the soviet union were founding members of the unece building on the league of nations difficult heritage and in an increasingly challenging political environment the unece s mission was to facilitate european cooperation transcending the boundaries set by the cold war with a number of competitor organizations set against it the unece managed to carve out a niche for itself setting norms and standards that still have an impact on the everyday lives of millions in europe and beyond today working against an overwhelming geopolitical trend unece succeeded in bridging the cold war divide on several occasions and maintained a broad system of contacts across the iron curtain this book provides a unique study of this important but hitherto under researched international organization incorporating research on the cold war the history of internationalism and european integration stinsky weaves these different threads of historical enquiry into a single analytical narrative in the late 1930s a number of american women especially those allied with various peace and isolationist groups protested against the nation s entry into world war ii while their story is fairly well known margaret paton walsh reveals a far less familiar story of women who fervently felt that american intervention was absolutely necessary paton walsh recounts how the united states became involved in the war but does so through the eyes of american women who faced it as a necessary evil covering the period between 1935 and 1941 she examines how these women functioned as political actors even though they were excluded from positions of power through activism in women s organizations informal women s networks and even male dominated lobbying groups in the great debate over whether america should enter the war some women favored aid to the allies not because they hoped for war but because they hoped aid would forestall more direct u s involvement but also because they believed war was preferable to a nazi victory paton walsh shows that this activism involved some of the most prominent women of their day elizabeth cutter morrow whose son in law charles lindbergh was an isolationist spokesman supported the revision of the neutrality acts to allow the sale of arms to the allies and expressed her support in a national radio broadcast soon other women joined this debate esther brunauer of the aauw journalist dorothy thompson and organizations like the league of women voters and national women s trade union league broke from the pacifist tradition to advocate american aid for the allied cause focusing on the conflict in europe paton walsh shows how these women grasped the implications of the lend lease program for america s entry into the war but supported it nevertheless by late 1941 the women s division of the fight for freedom committee had been established no longer merely advocating aid to britain to keep american boys out of battle this organization supported direct american involvement in the war as a means of stopping nazi oppression while most historians have focused on women s pacifism paton walsh connects women more directly to world events and shows how those interventionists reformulated maternalist ideas to justify and explain their beliefs our war too is a story of american women trying to reconcile the irreconcilable to preserve both their principles and their peace it expands our understanding of women as political actors and thinkers about foreign policy as it sheds new light on american public opinion over the build up to the war the cold war is conventionally regarded as a superpower conflict that dominated the shape of international relations between world war ii and the fall of the berlin wall smaller powers had to adapt to a role as pawns in a strategic game of the superpowers its course beyond their control this edited volume offers a fresh interpretation of twentieth century smaller european powers east west neutral and non aligned and argues that their position vis à vis the superpowers often provided them with an opportunity rather than merely representing a constraint analysing the margins for manoeuvre of these smaller powers the volume covers a wide array of themes ranging from cultural to economic issues energy to diplomacy and bulgaria to belgium given its holistic and nuanced intervention in studies of the cold war this book will be instrumental for students of history international relations and political science
