a leading foreign policy thinker uses chinese political theory to explain why some powers rise as others decline and what this means for the international order why has china grown increasingly important in the world arena while lagging behind the united states and its allies across certain sectors using the lens of classical chinese political theory leadership and the rise of great powers explains china s expanding influence by presenting a moral realist theory that attributes the rise and fall of great powers to political leadership yan xuetong shows that the stronger a rising state s political leadership the more likely it is to displace a prevailing state in the international system yan shows how rising states like china transform the international order by reshaping power distribution and norms and he considers america s relative decline in international stature even as its economy education system military political institutions and technology hold steady leadership and the rise of great powers offers a provocative alternative perspective on the changing dominance of states in why nations rise manjari chaterjee miller shows that some countries rise not just because they develop the military and economic power to do so but because they develop particular narratives about how to become a great power in the style of the great power du jour miller not only examines the narratives in historical and contemporary cases but also shows patterns of active and reticent rising powers and presents lessons this book analyses the conflict in ukraine and russia s annexation of crimea covering conceptualisations from rationalist to reflectivist and from quantitative to qualitative most contributors agree that many of the old concepts such as multi polarity spheres of influence sovereignty or even containment are still cognitively valid yet believe the eruption of the crisis means that they are now used in different contexts and thus infused with different meanings assessments of china s importance on the world stage usually focus on a single dimension of china s increasing power rather than on the multiple sources of china s rise including its economic might and the continuing modernization of its military this book offers multiple analytical perspectives constructivist liberal neorealist on the significance of the many dimensions of china s regional and global influence distinguished authors consider the likelihood of conflict and peaceful accommodation as china grows ever stronger they look at the changing position of china from the inside how do chinese policymakers evaluate the contemporary international order and what are the regional and global implications of that worldview the authors also address the implications of china s increasing power for chinese policymaking and for the foreign policies of korea japan and the united states contributors robert art brandeis university avery goldstein university of pennsylvania g john ikenberry princeton university byung kook kim korea university jonathan kirshner cornell university jeffrey w legro university of virginia jack s levy rutgers university qin yaqing china foreign affairs university robert s ross boston college akio takahara university of tokyo tang shiping nanyang technological university singapore wei ling china foreign affairs university zhu feng peking university
