this book explores the concept of geo architecture by analyzing the ways architectures are related to the local geography including mingling or contrasting with surrounding landscape adapting to mountainous or aquatic terrain and selection of construction materials architectures build with such skillfully contrived strategies and techniques have become live exhibit of folk customs and served to record in profound detail the long history of mankind s recognition of nature the combined effect is such that the architecture grows out of the surrounding natural and human environment this book is the third of a 4 volume book series the series develops the innovative concept of geo architecture by exploring the myriad influences of natural human and historical factors upon architecture these influences are considered in three categories namely interaction between architecture and nature interaction between architecture and its human users and change in architecture over time each category serves as a lens augmenting these lenses is the time person place concept applied different geographic the analysis ultimately focuses on two aspects geographic influence on architecture and architectural response to geography the over 1000 pictures of case architectures enriches the study with stunning and unique visual angles this unprecedented work will be a unique and valuable contribution to the literature integrating as it does the disciplines of architecture landscape architecture and geography wang fang s voice is original compelling and will be much appreciated by english speaking readers and inside china too i can only imagine stephen m ervin assistant dean graduate school of design harvard university july 2nd 2013 one reason for why there would be interest is because her research would fill some significant gaps in the literature what is novel about dr wang s series is that she further extends this intellectual project of looking at chinese architecture through chinese eyes by taking it one provocative step further annette m kim associate professor department of urban studies and planning m i t july 1st 2013

china is a vast nation comprised of hundreds of distinct ethnic communities each with its own language history and culture today the government of china recognizes just 56 ethnic nationalities or minzu as groups entitled to representation this controversial new book recounts the history of the most sweeping attempt to sort and categorize the nation s enormous population the 1954 ethnic classification project minzu shibie thomas s mullaney draws on recently declassified material and extensive oral histories to describe how the communist government in power less than a decade launched this process in ethnically diverse yunnan mullaney shows how the government drew on republican era scholarship for conceptual and methodological inspiration as it developed a strategy for identifying minzu and how non party member chinese ethnologists produced a scientific survey that would become the basis for a policy on nationalities
