over the past few years interest and research in experimental linguistics has shifted more toward centre stage perhaps because of the growing recognition that purely theoretical formulations and speculations about language must necessarily be tested against the empirical facts of language knowledge use and acquisition to highlight some aspects of empirical linguistics a conference was organized in 1978 at university of alberta at which six prominent scholars were invited to present substantial contributions these papers are included in this volume together with an epilogue summing up and discussing the recurrent themes of the conference and a general bibliography

this volume presents a selection of the best papers from the 21st annual university of wisconsin milwaukee linguistics symposium researchers from linguistics psychology computer science and philosophy using many different methods and focusing on many different facts of language addressed the question of the existence of linguistic rules are such rules best seen as convenient tools for the description of languages or are rules actually invoked by individual language users perhaps the most serious challenge to date to the linguistic rule is the development of connectionist architecture indeed these systems must be viewed as a serious challenge to the foundations of all of contemporary linguistics four broad themes emerged from the milwaukee conference corresponding to the four parts of the volume part i centers on arguments for the existence of symbolic rules in linguistic competence and performance part ii contains arguments against symbolic rules presenting connectionist models and other alternatives to the symbolic paradigm parts iii and iv take up two issues that are central to a number of language researchers language acquisition and learnability and modularity these issues are addressed from within both rule based and non rule based perspectives contributors farrell ackerman michael barlow catherine best david corina roberta corrigan kim daugherty bruce derwing jeff elman alice faber john goldsmith helen goodluck neil jacobs richard janda brian joseph michael kac alan kawamoto suzanne kemmer susan lima brian macwhinney steven pinker alan prince gerald sanders hinrich schutze mark seidenberg royal skousen nicholas sobin joseph stemberger gregory stone ann thyme robert van valin number is the most underestimated of the grammatical categories it is deceptively simple yet the number system which philosophers logicians and many linguists take as the norm namely the distinction between singular and plural as in cat versus cats is only one of a wide range of possibilities to be found in languages around the world some languages for instance make more distinctions than english having three four or even five different values adopting a wide ranging perspective greville corbett draws on examples from many languages to analyse the possible systems of number he reveals that the means for signalling number are remarkably varied and are put to a surprising range of special additional uses by surveying some of the riches of the world's linguistic resources this book first published in 2000 makes a major contribution to the typology of categories and demonstrates that languages are much more varied than is generally recognised
