demographic changes economic globalization and environmental concerns The CCCs continued relevance depends on its ability to reflect these changes effectively 4

this book assesses the statute for a european cooperative society see regarding agricultural activities by comparing how specific questions arising in this context must be dealt with under the italian and austrian legal systems in this regard council regulation ec no

1435 2003 of 22 July 2003 on the statute for a European cooperative society (SCS) is used as a tool for the structured analysis of various aspects of agricultural cooperatives. However, a comparison is only meaningful if the results are made comparable on the basis of a previously defined standard. Accordingly, the study uses on one hand a cooperative model developed by European legal scholars that defines general guidelines on how cooperatives should function. On the other, the results are presented in connection with economic considerations to discuss how efficient rules can be developed.

Non-contractual liability arising out of damage caused to another is one of the three main non-contractual obligations dealt with in the DCFR. The law of non-contractual liability arising out of damage caused to another in the common law is known as tort law or the law of torts, but in most other jurisdictions referred to as the law of delict. It is the area of law which determines whether one who has suffered a damage can on that account demand reparation in money or in kind from another with whom there may be no other legal connection than the causation of damage itself. Besides determining the scope and extent of responsibility for damages of one's own or another's creation, this field of law serves to protect fundamental rights in the private law domain. That is to say, horizontally between citizens inter se. Based on pan-European comparative research which annotates the work, this volume presents model rules on liability. Explanatory comments and illustrations amplify the policy decisions involved during the drafting process. Comparative material from over 25 different EU jurisdictions has been taken into account. The work therefore is not only a presentation of a future model for European rules to come but provides also a fairly detailed indication of the present legal situation in the member states.

The catalogue is substantially the work of William J. C. Berry Esq. The librarian assisted during the last year by J. Herbert Senter Esq. It embraces nearly 40,000 volumes.
