this volume reimagines the first century reception of the gospel of mark within a reconstructed yet hypothetical performance event in particular it considers the disciples character and characterization through the lens of performance criticism questions concerning the characterization of the disciples have been relatively one sided in new testament scholarship in favor of their negative characterization this project demonstrates why such assumptions need not be necessary when we re consider the oral aural milieu in which the gospel of mark was first composed and received by its earliest audiences

the volume contains a critical review of data results and open problems concerning the principal greek and coptic majuscule bookhands based on previous research of the author revised and updated to offer an overview of the different graphic phenomena although the various chapters address the history of different types of scripts i e biblical majuscule sloping pointed majuscule liturgical majuscule epigraphic and monumental scripts their juxtaposition allows us to identify common issues of the comparative method of palaeography from an overall critical assessment of these aspects the impossibility of applying a unique historical paradigm to interpret the formal expressions and the history of the different bookhands comes up due to the fact that each script follows different paths particular attention is also devoted to the use of greek majuscules in the writing of ancient christian books a modern and critical awareness of palaeographic method may help to place the individual witnesses in the context of the main graphic trends in the social and cultural environments in which they developed and in a more accurate chronological framework
