at the dawn of the twenty first century education about and through the media has become a worldwide phenomenon and is playing an increasingly important role in educational reform the theory and practice of media education have profited greatly from recent and intensive development and application of new information and telecommunications technologies consequently the importance of media and information literacy is taking on an even greater urgency with this in mind the contributors to this volume survey what has taken place over the last decade in different parts of the world examine the current state of theoretical conceptual and research development and consider where media education is going and where it ought to go with two thirds of its 22 contributions coming from outside the united states media literacy around the world is a genuine international effort with many leading media and information educators in the world taking part the work converts the notion of globalism from a slogan into a working hypothesis the concerns in this volume are with literacy not just in computer technology but as a broad concern of the educational process media are fundamental to our sense of living in a social world since the beginning of modernity media have transformed the scale on which we act as social beings and now in the era of digital media media themselves are being transformed as platforms content and producers multiply yet the implications of social theory for understanding media and of media for rethinking social theory have been neglected never before has it been more important to understand those implications this book takes on this challenge drawing on couldry s fifteen years of work on media and social theory this book explores how questions of power and ritual capital and social order and the conduct of political struggle professional competition and everyday life are all transformed by today s complex combinations of traditional and new media in the concluding chapters couldry develops a framework for global comparative research into media and for thinking collectively about the ethics and justice of our lives with media the result is a book that is both a major intervention in the field and required reading for all students of media and sociology this book argues that the gap between the official transparency rhetoric and the censorship reality has demonstrated the discrepancy between what the party is and what it claims to be such a discrepancy is manifested by the reality that the reformed news industry a hybrid of market oriented commercialization and party state control has largely failed to deliver either the voice of the disenfranchised groups or the value of journalism to observe the discrepancy this book investigates the role of transparency in the chinese news media media transparency which goes beyond the issue of censorship and press freedom has been undermined by the consensus reached between the party state and the media on political and market control it is this mutually accommodating and benefiting scheme between power and profits that has been hollowing out the substance of the transparency rhetoric and distorting the marxist idea of press freedom as freedom for all this book argues that the cause of such a gap between rhetoric and reality is rooted in the disjunction of political representation of both the party state and the profit seeking media
