this book commences with an analysis of the current state of child soldiering internationally thereafter the prescriptive content of contemporary norms on the prohibition of the use and recruitment of child soldiers is evaluated so as to determine whether these norms are capable of better enforcement an issues based approach is adopted in terms of which no specific regime of law such as international humanitarian law ihl is deemed dominant instead universal and regional human rights law international criminal law and ihl are assessed cumulatively so as to create a mutually reinforcing web of protection ultimately it is argued that the effective implementation of child soldier prohibitive norms does not require major changes to any entity or functionary engaged in such prevention rather it requires the constant reassessment and refinement of all such entities and functionaries and here some changes are suggested international judicial quasi judicial and non judicial entities and functionaries most relevant to child soldier prevention are critically assessed ultimately the conclusions reached are assessed in light of a case study on the use and recruitment of child soldiers in the democratic republic of the congo however unthinkable child soldiers may be within a generalized conception of childhood they are not imaginary figures rather they are a constant in almost every armed conflict around the world the participation of children in wars may question the idea of childhood as a once upon a time story with a happy and predictable ending disrupting the natural idea of a protected and innocent childhood and also eliciting fear uncertainty revulsion horror and sorrow using the perspectives of both childhood studies and critical approaches to international relations jana tabak explores the constructions of child soldiers as children at risk and at the same time risky children more specifically the child and the world aims both to problematize the boundaries that articulate child soldiers as necessarily deviant and pathological in relation to normal children and to show how these specific limits participate in the re production and promotion of a particular version of the international political order in this sense the focus of this work is not on investigating child soldiers lives and experiences per se but on their presumed threatening feature as they depart from the protected territory of childhood disquieting everyday international life in this path breaking study professor goodwin gill and dr cohn assess the status of the child soldier in international law and highlight the ways in which international humanitarian law fails to provide effective protection particularly in the internal conflicts which are the most common battlefields today based upon empirical data gathered from places of conflict all over the world the authors examine the consequences for child soldiers their families and communities of their participation in armed conflict they conclude their study with practical suggestions for preventing recruitment and call for a more coherent policy of treatment for those children who have participated in acts of violence book jacket title summary field provided by blackwell north america inc all rights reserved
