current and future societal developments are likely to affect various populations differently. Tectonic shifts new or accelerated by COVID-19 have affected many populations in distinctively different ways that cannot be ignored given their collective impact on workforces and workplaces alike. Their story must be told. The USA's changing demographics also must be considered. Based on US census data by the year 2045 the nation is expected to become a minority majority country. In other words all minorities when bundled together will then become a majority for the first time in US history. This in turn will have significant implications for large segments of society including service providers who specialize and work closely with many of these different populations. Diversity will be manifested in a variety of ways. It is essential as a society to stop and consider what this means for delivering quality services to so many different populations each one of which will likely present with its own unique set of circumstances dynamics and needs that must be examined and addressed. One size doesn't fit all is unique in addressing this issue and doing so in such a way that maximizes the positive impact these special populations can have on the service delivery system and the country's future economic well-being. It offers a service delivery driven best practices approach for working with diverse special populations with each chapter focusing on a different yet important population. One size doesn't fit all readily assists practitioners and policy makers with how they might best serve the emerging needs of many different populations with whom they likely interact serve direct and/or fund.

For more than thirty years and through eleven editions James Henslin's Sown to Earth Sociology has opened new windows onto the social realities that shape our world. Now in its twelfth edition, the most popular anthology in all of sociology includes new articles on our changing world while also retaining its classic must-read essays focusing on social interaction in everyday life. The forty-five selections bring students face to face with the twin projects of contemporary sociology: understanding the individual's experience of society and analyzing social structure. The twelfth edition's exceptional new readings include selections on the unspoken rules of social interaction, the shocking disparities between upper and lower class life america s changing attitudes toward work and family and the roles they fulfill and the mcdonaldization of american society together with these essential new articles the selections by peter berger herbert gans erving goffman donna eder zella luria c wright mills deborah tannen barrie thorne sidney katz philip zimbardo and many others provide firsthand reporting that gives students a sense of being there henslin also explains basic methods of social research providing insight into how sociologists explore the social world the selections in down to earth sociology highlight the most significant themes of contemporary sociology ranging from the sociology of gender power politics sports and religion to the contemporary crises of racial tension crime rape poverty and homelessness
