this work uses existing studies for the empirical audience reception data combined with discussions of the different representations of violence to look at violence in the media as an art form of its own this book investigates the relationships between political violence social violence and economic violence using examples from south africa northern ireland lebanon and syria it examines the cultural impact of war and argues that a culture of violence can explain the high levels of violence which are frequently found in post war societies

this brief provides a theoretical and conceptual development of a new risk assessment toolbox rat for the early detection of violent extremists it is based on a neurocognitive perspective conceptualized as neuroplasticity in action arising from brain based neural patterns expressed in mind based cognitive pathways likely to form a mind set of violent extremism this neurocognitive based risk assessment toolbox rat is comprised of two distinct components a cognitive indicators instrument that serves as an early detection checklist for trained practitioners and a software visualisation program the brief includes a framework of contemporary approaches to the risk assessment of violence as well as the background context for the current research project on violent extremism and its related concepts of terrorism and radicalisation out of which the rat was developed a detailed overview of rat and a pilot case study experiment to highlight the practical value and utility of this neurocognitive risk assessment toolbox preliminary research findings of a study conducted with a sample of recognized experts academics and practitioners in several countries around the world to fine tune and validate the risk parameters of the two components that constitute rat risk assessment toolbox the current stage of development of rat as a practitioner based system for the early detection of potentially violent extremists as well as its strategic intelligence implications for using a neurocognitive risk assessment approach to violent extremism is discussed research limitations and plans for future research studies this work will be of interest to researchers in criminology and criminal justice interested in studying violent extremism terrorism and crime prevention and intervention and policing as well as researchers in related fields of forensic psychology cognitive neuroscience and social work or socialintervention books about sports even those written by scholars are frequently little more than hagiography they extol the virtue of athletics for participant and spectator alike of greater rarity are those that look critically at the political social economic and psychological underpinnings of contemporary sports violence in sports is among the relatively neglected issues of serious study sports violence is perhaps the first collection of scholarly theory and research to examine in detail aggression within and surrounding sports as such it seeks to present the broadest possible range of interpretations and perspectives the book is therefore both interdisciplinary and international in scope two chapters by guttmann and vamplew are concerned with historical analyses of sports violence definitions and perspectives on aggression in general and sports related aggression in particular are the topics of chapters 4 through 7 by smith bredemeier mark bryant and lehman and mummendey and mummendey here a wide variety of social and psychological theories are brought to bear on the conceptualization of aggression on the playing field and in the stands dunning and liischen both sociologists of sport examine the origins structure and functions of violence of sports and of their interconnections psychological interpretations and research are presented in chapters by russell and keefer goldstein and kasiarz while bryant and zillmann examine the portrayal and effects of aggression in televised sports the rehabilitation of partner violent men informed by theory and evidence this text offers a full account of a pressing social problem professor clive hollin school of psychology the university of leicester uk this is a book which clearly sets out the history theoretical developments interventions and possibilities for the future within a uk context it is an excellent source of good information about where we are and an excellent springboard for future developments in both research and practice professor liz gilchrist department of psychology glasgow caledonian university uk erica bowen s book the rehabilitation of partner violent men is a timely and important contribution to the literature of effective interventions the content would be of interest to students researchers and practitioners dr nicola graham kevan school of psychology university of central lancashire uk violence within intimate relationships is not just a modern occurrence yet while the nature of the abuse has changed little over hundreds of years great strides have been made in dealing with male perpetrators of domestic violence in the uk the rehabilitation of partner violent men presents an historical account of the policy changes that have led to the provision of rehabilitation programmes for male perpetrators of intimate partner violence within the british criminal justice system drawing on both national and international literature the book provides an overview of the theoretical foundation behind current approaches to rehabilitation as well as a critical examination of evaluation methodology and an appraisal of the effectiveness of current practices while probing deeply into the nature of intimate partner violence the rehabilitation of partner violent men offers rich and revealing insights into the efficacy of intervention programmes and their profound influences on the lives of millions of women around the world each year this book considers a spectrum of post war plays in which characters are created coerced and destroyed by language since its inception around 1970 the study of new religious movements nrms has evolved into an established multidisciplinary field at the same time both the movements and the scholars who study them have been the subjects of intense controversy in this volume a group of senior nrm scholars who have been instrumental in the development of the field will offer pivotal essays that present the basics of nrm scholarship along with guidance for teachers on classroom use the book is organized topically around subjects that are both central to the study of nrms and likely to be useful to non specialists part i contains examinations of the definitional boundaries of the area of study varying disciplinary perspectives on nrms unique methodological ethical problems encountered in the study of nrms and the controversies that have confronted scholars studying nrms and the movements themselves part ii examines a series of topics central to teaching about nrms the larger sociocultural significance of the movements their distinctive symbolic and organizational features the interrelated processes of joining and leaving nrms the organization of gender roles in nrms media and popular culture portrayals of the movements the occurrence of corruption and abuse within movements and violence by and against nrms part iii provides informational resources for teaching about nrms which are particularly important in a field where knowing the biases of sources is crucial with its interdisciplinary approach the volume provides comprehensive accessible information and perspectives on nrms it is an invaluable guide for instructors navigating this scholarly minefield an interdisciplinary work that examines the representation of death in traditional and new media explores the meaning of assassination and suicide in a post 9 11 context and grapples with the use of legal and medical tools that affect the quest for a good death this book directly explores the question of why contemporary society is so fascinated with violence and crime the fascination with violence in contemporary society posits that the phenomenon is in part because we have all become consumers of the sublime an intense and strongly ambiguous emotion which is increasingly commodified through the experience of violence and the sense of disorientation that accompanies it we obsessively seek out moments of intensified existence equally crime continues to speak to the depths of the collective unconscious questioning us about our transience and the model of society we wish to live in binik proposes that this is why the reaction to violence has become a tool with which to express and take ownership of a desire for social cohesion this book uses interviews with viewers dark tourists collectors and others to further interrogate this social trend many of these are participants in the four key case studies explored within the study emotional pathways while watching a true crime tv series the trend of dark tourism murderabilia collecting and the fanaticism of and for anders breivik this book seeks to answer one of the most pressing cultural trends of the modern age and fill in a gap in the criminological literature on the subject
